Foster-Rice hits keep rolling in

By TONY PIPPEN

In 1971 The American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers (ASCAP) presented a record five awards to songwriters Jerry Foster and Bill Rice for hit songs in the country music field.

Foster and Rice broke their own record in 1972 by capturing 10 awards. They are scheduled to receive seven more in October at the Country Music Convention in Nashville, Tenn.

In the past five years, their songs have sold an estimated 25 million records in albums and singles, according to Foster.

The way things are going for the young songwriters, who teamed up in 1962 in Malden, it looks like they will be in the winner's circle again next year.

Foster and Rice are probably better known to Bootheel residents as entertainers, having started performing together in 1962 when Foster originated The Bootheel Jamboree at Risco. That's when I first met them. Since that time the Jamboree has moved to Malden, Clarkton and finally Bernie, where it appears to have found a permanent home.

While performing on the Jamboree, along with area talent and Grand Ole Opry stars from Nashville, Foster and Rice became popular throughout Southeast Missouri and Northeast Arkansas. They later formed their own band and had television shows in Cape Girardeau and Jonesboro, Ark. They worked together at a Malden radio station prior to moving to Nashville.

Although they began writing songs together in 1962, things didn't really begin to click for them until Foster moved to Nashville in May of 1967.

Foster sold pots and pans from door- to- door at night and played the villain in gunfights on weekends in Frontier Town near Nashville. This allowed him free time during the days to make the rounds in Nashville and try to sell his and Rice's songs. Rice stayed in Malden with a steady job at a radio station while Foster worked in Nashville.

Jerry returned to Bernie recently as the featured performer at the Jamboree. I talked with him about his career.

Wiping sweat from his face while backstage at the Jamboree, Foster recalled how he finally got his songwriting partner to Nashville: "I had been playing the villain in the weekend gunfights at Frontier Town until the assistant manager of the town left and I took his job. Later the manager left and I was named manager. That's when I sent for Rice and made him my assistant. We ended up writing most of the scripts and starring in the shootouts.

"I could tell when I did a good job, because everyone booed and hissed me. I was a mean villain. I would tie the good guy to a wagon wheel and then pistol whip him. Then I'd make him beg for his life. Usually the audience would help him beg. Then just for meanness I'd shoot him. The audience hated me. They loved Bill because he usually played the good guy."

Their acting days were limited, however, when they began to produce one hit song after another.

Charley Pride recorded their first hit song, "The Day the World Stood Still," which climbed to No. 3 in the country music charts. He then recorded "The Easy Part's Over," and it hit No. 2.

Johnny Paycheck had five hits in a row with Foster-Rice songs, including "Someone to Give My Love To," "Love Is a Good Thing," "Something About You I Love," and "You Touch My Life One Time."

Paycheck's current album also has five Foster- Rice songs in it.

"Back Side of Dallas," recorded by Jeannie C. Riley, reached the top 10. Stan Hitchcock had hits with "Honey I'm Home," "Dixie Belle," "Call Me Gone," and "At Least Part of the Way." Hitchcock also has a current Foster- Rice song on the charts called "The Same Old Way."

Jody Miller's recording of "Darling You Can Always Come Back Home" rose to No. 11. "Herman Schwartz," recorded by Stonewall Jackson, is also on the charts, along with "The Hand of Love," cut by Billy Walker.

Pattie Page cut two award- winning Foster- Rice songs in 1972 called "Give Him Love" and "Think Again."

"Would You Take Another Chance on Me" and "Think About It Darling" were smash hits for Jerry Lee Lewis. Both hit No. 1 in the country charts.

Ray Smith's current single, "It Wasn't Easy," is also a Foster- Rice song.

"When You Say Love," was a double- award winner for the former Malden songwriting team. Bob Luman's version reached No. 2 in the country charts and Sonny and Cher followed with a smash hit in the pop field.

Luman's record of "It Takes You" was another award winner for Foster and Rice last year.

One of the seven awards to be presented in October to Foster and Rice will be for "Take Time to Love Her," recorded in 1972 by Nat Stuckey. The song rose to No. 2.

Several of their songs have been included in Lynn Anderson Albums. One song, "I Still Belong to You" sold two million copies in Miss Anderson's album.

As if they are not busy enough with their songwriting, Jerry and Bill have formed their own production company called "Farah". They are now producing recording sessions for Narvel Felts, Bobby Lee Trammel, Suzi St. Marie and Jimmy Payne. They produced the current hit record "Drift Away" by Narvel Felts. A new record by Trammel will be released Sept. 3 featuring another Foster- Rice song, "Love Don't Let Me Down".

Lois Johnson, who sings with Hank Williams Jr., has cut a Foster- Rice song called "Love Will Stand," which will be released in about two weeks. "Kick the Can," was also a hit for Jimmy Rodgers.

Jerry and Bill also find time to make a few records of their own. Rice had a hit with "Traveling Minstrel Man," which was also recorded by the Carter Family. Jerry's latest release is "Copperhead," written by Bob McDill and Jim Casey.

Jerry attributes much of his and Bill's success to Bill Hall, their publisher. "We have been with the same publisher from the beginning," Jerry noted. "He has guided us through our career and has served as a manager without charging us a cent. We think he's the best in the business." Jerry also gives a lot of credit to his wife, Polly. "I've been with the same woman for 19 years and she has stuck with me through it all. She has been very understanding and has backed me all the way." They have two sons and a daughter.

Bill and Jerry write most of their music together, but occasionally they write separately. For instance, Jerry wrote the lyrics to "The Back Side of Dallas" while lying in a hospital bed.

Grand jury indicts former Nixon aide

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former presidential adviser John D. Ehrlichman has been indicted by the grand jury investigating the break-in of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, the Los Angeles Times and Washington Post said today.

The newspapers said Ehrlichman, who was White House adviser on domestic affairs, was indicted secretly Tuesday along with former Ehrlichman aide Egil Krogh Jr.; David Young, a former aide to Henry A. Kissinger, and convicted Watergate conspirator G. Gordon Liddy.

The newspapers said they had learned Ehrlichman also had been indicted on a perjury charge.

The Post said the four men were named in burglary-conspiracy charges. The Times did not specify the other charges, but said they were in connection with the break-in. Sources for the stories were not cited.

There was no immediate official comment on the Times, story. After the sealed indictments were returned, an aide to special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox said they could threaten Cox's Watergate investigation.

Superior Court Judge James C. Kolts, who received the indictments late Tuesday, ordered the documents sealed until at least one of those indicted surrenders to authorities. Names and charges stemming from the probe were to be released immediately afterward.

Kolts also ordered that arrest warrants not be issued until next Tuesday to give the indicted a chance to surrender on their own. He set bond at $500 for each person indicted.

Cox's aide, James Doyle, said the Watergate prosecutor could be expected to issue a statement today about the effect of the indictments on his investigation. "They've got a small piece of a much bigger thing," Doyle said.

Later, however, a spokesman for Cox said the special prosecutor would have no comment until after the indictments are unsealed and would not promise that a statement would be made even then.

Sources close to the grand jury previously had said that Ehrlichman, Krogh, Young and Liddy were possible targets for indictment in the probe. Dist. Atty. Joseph Busch declined comment on that report.

Ehrlichman's local attorney, Joseph Ball, said he had not heard whether his client had been indicted. "I don't know anything about it," he said.

Sources said the 18 grand jurors filed into court at 8 p.m. EDT after spending most of the day hearing a replay of Ehrlichman's testimony before the Senate Watergate Committee about the Ellsberg breakin. The jurors reportedly also had been shown three White House interoffice memorandums involving Ehrlichman, Krogh and Young and covert plans relating to Ellsberg.

Four others have been named publicly as participants in the Sept. 3, 1971, breakin at the Beverly Hills office of Dr. Lewis Fielding. But the four — E. Howard Hunt, Bernard Barker and Cuban nationals Eugenio Martinez and Felipe DeDiego — were granted immunity from prosecution in return for grand jury testimony.

In his televised Watergate testimony, Ehrlichman defended the breakin as a "vital national security" operation. He said it was well within the constitutional function of the presidency.

Golf course would remain open to public

Council closer to Country Club sale

The City Council Tuesday night worked its way closer to an agreement with the country club board of directors to sell the golf course to Sikeston Country Club, Inc., by agreeing in principal to the sale and indicating what terms would be required.

The clubhouse facilities and the front nine holes of the golf course are owned by the Sikeston Jaycees. The Jaycees owe the city $23,000 on the club. The back nine holes are on airport property owned by the city.

The city is seeking $98,000 for the property. The price includes $75,000 for a 99- year lease on the back nine holes, paid in a lump sum, and $23,000 for the front nine holes. The $23,000 would pay off the Jaycees' debt to the city.

Other arrangements proposed include allowing the Jaycees to have the ballroom for meetings and parties and keeping the golf course open to the public until a municipal course is built.

The council balked at a proposal which would have allowed the club to raise its green fees at a rate up to 25 per cent per year, saying such action could price out much of the public.

The council suggested that the club ask the city for permission to raise its fees. Clem Beal, representing the club, said he would take the recommendation back to the board of directors.

The council said the agreement must contain a reversionary clause which will require the club to offer the land to the city for the purchase price if the club ever decides to sell the land.

The $75,000 received for the back nine holes would go to Sikeston Memorial Airport because the land is part of the airport complex. The other $23,000 would go into the city's general fund.

City Manager Jim Huff told the council the bids for the first phase of the airport expansion project will be opened next Tuesday.

Mayor Frank Ferrell and councilmen Bill Ryan and Don Fulton flew to Jefferson City Tuesday to receive a $12,500 check from Gov. Christopher Bond for the state's share of the airport project's costs.

The city also agreed to participate in an urban planning contract with the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission and the Missouri Department of Community Affairs for a comprehensive review of the city's master plan. The project will last one year and cost $10,000, with $7,500 being supplied by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development and $2,500 being supplied by the city.

The council approved the move of City Bar from 136 E. Front St. to 103 E. Malone Ave.

The council tabled a proposal for the construction of Russell Street and the installation of sewer and water lines.

Shots fired at motorist at hospital

Two shots were fired by an unidentified gunman Tuesday night at a car being driven by an East Prairie woman as she pulled out of the parking lot at Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Lula Douglas of 209 S. Center, East Prairie, told police she was leaving the parking lot by the Plaza Drive exit when she heard a shot and something struck the side of her car. A moment later a bullet came through the right front windshield.

Police said the bullets probably came from an air gun. The first shot hit the right side of the car, putting a three- inch gash in the side.

Police were still investigating today.

SeMo transportation system for elderly being developed

Southeast Missouri Transportation System, Inc., a newly formed organization for the elderly, has been awarded $159,772 as the state and federal share of the project's first year funding.

The system is a non-profit, regional transportation organization encompassing 27 Southeast Missouri counties. The federal funds were granted by the Missouri Department of Community Affairs, Office of Aging, under the provisions of the Title III, Older American Act of 1965.

The new organization is a culmination of many months of work by local organizations such as PRIDE enterprises, Inc. (People Retired Independently Doing Everything), TOTE (Transportation of the Elderly) and MATS (Malden Area Transportation System) to develop a workable transportation system for persons over age 55.

These existing organizations are now responsible for developing memberships in their own local interest areas and for helping unorganized areas encourage membership and citizen involvement.

Routes and miles covered by the buses will be determined by how many people sign up for the program and the desires of those who do, Dr. Douglas Ross, secretary of the organization, said Tuesday.

"We can't say we're going to put a bus here and it will run from point A to point B," Dr. Douglas explained, "until we know the desires of the people."

The buses could run between towns or within towns depending on the wishes of those signing up. He added that studies show it takes about 500 people to pay for one bus operation.

He added that the system is in its very beginning stages and its planning is proceeding cautiously.

The system is based on a successful service headquartered in Mexico, Mo., which serves northern Missouri.

Any citizen over the age of 55 is eligible for membership, or handicapped people of any age on a "space available" basis. The counties involved are Scott, Mississippi, Stoddard, New Madrid, Dunklin, Pemiscot, Butler, Bollinger, Cape Girardeau, Howell, Oregon,

Clayton resigns chamber position

O. D. Clayton resigned Tuesday as executive vice president of the Sikeston Chamber of Commerce.

Clayton submitted his resignation to the chamber at its noon meeting. The resignation is effective Sept. 15.

Clayton told The Daily Standard today that he thought he had done as much good for the chamber as he could. He said he decided it was time to go into another line of work.

Chamber president Don Agnew said Tuesday that the chamber was accepting Clayton's resignation with regret. He said he didn't think Clayton had been dissatisfied.

Clayton agreed, saying there was no ill feelings and that he and the board got along "beautifully."

Clayton said he plans to take a month- long vacation and then go into another line of work in Sikeston.

Clayton has been manager of the chamber since March 1968.

Agnew said the chamber would hold a special meeting Sept. 13 to discuss filling the vacant post.

Theft suspects held under $10,000 bond

NEW MADRID — Wiley Kimbrough, 43, and Demetra Baker, 30, of Divernon, Ill., were ordered held under $10,000 bond each when they requested a preliminary hearing on felonious stealing charges in Magistrate Court before Judge Leo Hedgepeth.

The two, arrested Thursday by Sikeston police, are charged with stealing two television sets and some linens from the Cabana Courts motel in New Madrid.

Judge Hedgepeth appointed attorneys to advise the accused. Date for a hearing has not been set.

David Wheatley of Marston, charged with exhibiting a single- barrel shotgun in a threatening manner towards Andy Wayne Babbs, also of Marston, was placed under $1,000 bond and given until Sept. 10 to obtain an attorney and appear for a hearing at 9 a.m. on the charge.

The shooting was erroneously reported in Saturday's editon to have taken place at the home of Donald Babbs. The report should have said Andy Wayne Babbs.

Danny Hensley, Sam Hensley and Richard Meese of Tallapoosa were placed under $1,000 bond each pending a hearing on a charge of malicious destruction of property. They are accused of shooting and hitting a station wagon owned by G. C. Toone Jr. of Risco.

Mathis Brown Jr. was bound over to Circuit Court under $1,000 bond when he waived preliminary hearing on a felonious stealing charge. He is accused of stealing a $75 Social Security check belonging to Willie White of 631 Hunt Road, New Madrid.

Ten persons were fined on misdemeanor charges, according to Mrs. Lorene Thompson, clerk of the Magistrate Court, who stated about 40 other persons posted bonds over the weekend holiday for traffic violations, mostly speeders arrested as a result of radar surveillance.

Ivan Reno and James Jarnagin each were assessed $40 fines for hunting doves from a motor vehicle. Rondel Alfred Dunn was fined $50 on charges of hunting doves from a motor vehicle and failure to show hunting permit.

By stipulation and agreement the petition of Clyde L. Wisdom in a suit for damages and counter claim of Eugene Henry Hill were dismissed with prejudice and at the cost of Wisdom.

Satisfaction of judgment was filed in a civil suit by St. Clair Hospital against William and Ruth Wheelis.

Other cases and fines:

Kirby Cole, operating overwidth vehicle, $25; Alfred Henry Coon, no operator license and expired vehicle license, $25; Harvey Lee Wigfall, speeding, $20; Richard Stanley Grissom, speeding, $25; Randy Joe Belt, speeding $65; Fred Noah, operating vehicle beyond 25 miles on a local license, $20; and Doris Jones Trucking, no special fuel permit, $25.

LOOKING DOWN
ONE'S NOSE

One of the greatest features of our country is the American tradition that all men in our society, whatever their station in life, trade or employment, are equal; equal in stature, equal under the law, equal in the sight of God. Unlike the European heritage which was thrown off in this country, Americans do not distinguish others by class. At least, not most Americans.

Unfortunately, there are some who seem to want to go back to the "old country" way, where the intellectual elite, or those who work with their minds (or by their wits) look down upon those who work with their hands as a "lower" class.

It is hard to believe, but it is true, that legislation has actually been proposed in the Senate of the United States which would prohibit men in the armed forces from serving in the role of "butlers, cooks, housekeepers, bartenders, secretaries or errand boys." One Senator actually said that the present policy of the military, which indeed does permit such roles, "is an intolerable situation and a disgrace to the armed forces." Question: Since When? In American, every man is his own king, whatever his employment.

BETTER KEEP THOSE SEAT BELTS

An uncommon uproar has engulfed the automotive industry, the government, insurance companies, various and sundry experts and the public in a far-reaching controversy over automobile safety devises. Specifically, the U. S. Government's Department of Transportation has mandated that "passive restraint systems" -- or airbags -- be installed, in lieu of seat belts, in all automobiles beginning 1976. However, most manufacturers of cars declare that airbags will give motorists less protection than safety belts, and the American Automobile Association (The AAA) accuses the government of playing a "statistical shell game with human lives." On one issue there is no disagreement; the airbags will add substantially to the cost of a new car -- and the buyers will foot the bill.

Tests have raised serious questions as to whether the airbag, as against seatbelts, will provide the cure-all we were first led to believe. Recently, for example, the crash of an airbag equipped car resulted in the death of a seven-week- old infant. Anticipating the crash, the mother very sensibly slammed on the brakes. The child was thrown to the floor. Upon impact, the airbags "deployed normally," but, of course, it was too late. The baby died. There were no seat belts in the test car. How tragic it is that a baby should die in the course of the experiment.

Concerned motorists may very well ask, however; how much more dangerous will it be if, as the Department of Transportation insists, all seat belts are replaced by airbags? The bags operate only in frontal crashes, and then only above the 20-24 miles an hour speed; they are of no value in side collisions, rollovers, rear-end crashes or multiple - impact accidents — and most fatal automobile accidents are not head-on collisions. And there may be other problems. Recently an airbag exploded accidentally as a couple was driving along a road, injuring one of the occupants.

One major car manufacturer, in a study reported by the National Academy of Sciences, found that twice as many lives could be saved by lap and shoulder belts than by airbags. The American Safety Belt Council estimates between 10-15,000 people a year would be saved if all motorists used seat belts.

Millions of mothers put their children in the front seat while traveling. It would seem prudent that every one of them should be property restrained; the young ones in approved child seats (or infant carriers) secured by lap belts; the older ones by safety belts. The same goes for every occupant.

But people won't be able to use safety belts if they are removed and replaced by the questionable airbag. Calm reflection suggests that the AAA may be right; the government should not play games with people's lives.

THE STILL HEAVY HEAT

There is mist and the grass glistens with dew and the early morning sun throws long, golden beams through the trees and across the lawns and fields.

The corn is tall and a deep green and you can almost hear it growing as its long, restless leaves rustle in the slightest breeze. And the soybeans are full and fat as they march in long, even rows across the slow rolling fields.

The heat comes up with the sun and simmers over quiet downtown walks as air conditioners cool the closed cars and the closed buildings. And tanned youngsters, half-clad, on bikes pedal hurriedly along to the crowded pools and, meanwhile, their mothers linger along the orderly supermarket counters so neat and cool and removed from bedmaking and cooking chores.

With the afternoon the radios and Tvs drone the ball game and the tearful times of Tv courtships, marriages and divorces. Lawn mowers chatter away at the stillness of quiet neighborhoods; sprinklers spray their soft, cool freshness.

And on a creek bank, or by the pond, in the shade, a fly buzzes as a boy or man or both watch the white, puffy clouds making monsters or monks or slow- moving magic while red corks rest on still waters.

The afternoon begins to slowly fade into evening. Men come home. They come from the fields, tanned, sweating, hungry. And from the offices and stores and factories to sit back in soft, favorite chairs to read the paper, to talk to and touch those they love, to reap the quiet reward of their labor and, perhaps, to wish for fall, or winter or spring.

For each will come as surely as the night — the fall with its brisk, fresh coolness and roaring colors; the winter with its glistening snow beneath the street lights and, then, its melting, damp death as Spring arrives with its flowers and buds and birds.

They will all come but for now, the long, golden beams of the morning, the simmering afternoon, the still heavy heat of the night.

For a while at least it looked like the President was going to cooperate, and thus clear up the tangle of confusion about who had said what to whom. He had the facts at his fingertips, and by a simple decision to share them with the Congress he could have resolved a mass of doubts. But, it was not to be.

The Senate committee was awash in contradictory stories, and the revelation that the executive had been monitoring crucial phone calls reflecting on the points at issue had seemed to promise necessary answers. There was a bit of shock expressed that conversations had been recorded at all, but at least the record of such internal communications would settle the nagging questions of the senators as they labored before the TV cameras and its enormous audience.

Suddenly, however, the investigators found themselves up against a blank wall. Though the President had evinced a willingness to supply the relevant items, all at once the door clanged shut.

The President handed down a stiff- necked order decreeing that no further data from within the executive branch would be provided -- claiming "executive privilege" as his reason. In a sweeping claim to presidential secrecy, he asserted that Presidents historically had "withheld information whenever (they) found that what was sought was confidential or its disclosure would be incompatible with the public interest or jeopardize the safety of the nation."

Reaction was swift and vehement -- in favor of the President. The chief executive was loudly applauded by the liberal media and liberal political spokesmen for upholding the most sacred precepts of his office.

Never mind that the data in question could have cleared up conflicting testimony and brought the dispute before Congress to decisive conclusion -- executive privilege must be made to prevail. The New York Times and the Washington Post were fervent in their praises of the White House and expressed disdain for its congressional adversaries, with numerous opinion- makers following suit.

If the foregoing scenario seems out of focus, it is because the events described are not today's, but those of 19 years ago. The President in question was Dwight D. Eisenhower. The senator, Joe McCarthy of Wisconsin, who contended the records at issue would vindicate his claim of Administration pressure to call off a sensitive investigation and disprove the Administration's counter- claims of McCarthy's point that presidential secrecy was invoked when monitored phone calls appeared to prove his point.

As the lid came down, American liberals thronged the streets to shout hosannas to "executive privilege."

Compare this with the current uproar on the liberal-left about Richard Nixon's cover-up of recorded conversations relating to Watergate. The parallels are so precise as to be astonishing: In both cases we have conflicting claims before Congress, monitored phone calls and other internal data reflecting on the matters at issue, and presidential refusal to supply these data to Senate investigators. Yet Nixon is called unflattering names for refusing to come across, while Eisenhower was a noble servant of the Republic.

In '54, of course, the claim of executive privilege served the liberal interest in the holy crusade to bring down Sen. McCarthy, and executive privilege was therefore supremely correct. In '73, the claim of executive privilege impedes the liberal interest in the crusade to bring down Richard Nixon, and the claim is therefore hopelessly wrong. "Double standard" is one possible way of putting it. Plain hypocrisy would be another.

NIXON SHOULD GET WATERGATE ENDED

Americans are beginning to suffer from Watergate on the brain.

At one extreme is the majority of the public which, despite the best efforts of a corps of commentators, still remains essentially apathetic about, though increasingly disgusted with, what it apparently considers to have been more in the nature of a political peccadillo than a crime — the breakin of Democratic party headquarters in Washington last summer.

At another extreme are those commentators who for months — it seems like forever — have been harping on the immorality of this dastardly blow at the very foundations of the republic, including some who initially called it the "Watergate caper." They have not stopped short of using the word "heinous" to describe the attempt to burglarize and bug the Democrats' files.

At yet another extreme is the administration, which by its silence and noncooperation with congressional investigators under the principle of executive privilege has possibly done more than the most outraged journalist or opportunistic political opponent to keep the whole mess dragging on without a satisfactory resolution.

Seven men have been convicted for their part in the Watergate affair, receiving sentences ranging from six years, eight months to 20 and 35 years.

The longer sentences, of course, are "provisional," suggesting that they would be considerably reduced if only the defendants would spill the beans about the administration higher-ups who allegedly masterminded the scheme.

But even six years is fairly stiff punishment for a first-time felon convicted of simple, unarmed breaking and entering. It seems wholly out of proportion to the gravity of the crime, just as the continued playing of the story on the front pages has inflated what should have been merely a footnote to the 1972 election campaign into the scandal of the decade.

Barry Goldwater is right; the thing has gone on long enough. The longer President Nixon delays in assisting Congress in getting to the very bottom — and top — of the afair, the more difficult it will be for him to convince a cynical public that he himself was not directly and deliberately involved.

That would make Watergate a real tragedy.

THROWING OUT
THE UMPIRE

In the American system of free enterprise, the role of government in relationship to business is often described as that of umpire. This is a good and accurate definition, easily understood by people to whom a sense of sportsmanship and fair play is second nature.

The umpire duties of government -- federal, state and local -- have been strengthened over the years with a formidable arsenal of regulatory agencies. The larger a company becomes, the closer its actions are scrutinized by designated regulatory agencies -- the Federal Trade Commission, the Anti- Trust Department of the federal government and many others. Of late, however, a new concept has developed in the regulation of business.

It is now proposed that consumers may band together and institute "class action" lawsuits to set right the alleged wrongdoing of business. The idea seems to be that the spectators of the ball team should be able to throw out the umpire and run the game to suit themselves. No self-respecting ball player would submit to this kind of harassment. In the case of business, the prospects of class action suits by groups of consumers against manufacturers, producers, distributors and retailer raises the question of whether responsible firms would dare risk the liabilities of operating in such a climate. Unrestrained class action lawsuits, of the kind some are proposing, would appear to mean the abdication of government as umpire. It's hard to see how those who believe in a fair ball game could countenance such a step.

GET STARTED

Ask your father how much mileage he gets from a gallon of gasoline when he is driving his car out on the open road. Then ask him how much he gets when he is driving in town. It may surprise you to hear him say that he gets quite a few more miles on the gasoline in the country than in town. The reason is that the many starts and stops of city driving use up more gasoline thansteady running at a higher speed. It takes a lot of power to get an automobile into motion when it is stopped, but once moving, less fuel is required.

This is just as true of human beings as it is of motor cars. That's why it's so hard to start a job, and why we have such proverbs as "Well begun, half done." Once you get started on a difficult task, you will find yoursel well on the road to completing it.

UNDER THE HOOD

If you were thinking of buying an automobile, and wanted to try it out, you wouldn't take it out and run it constantly down grade. Almost any car can perform well when aided by gravity. The real test of a motor comes when it has to pull the car up a steep hill.

There are lots of young folks — and older ones, too, for that matter — who seem to be good cars as long as they are going downhill. They do fairly well on the level, too, as long as the road is smooth and there are no bad bumps to upset them.

But what happens when they go up against a hard pull? They act like the automobile with a bad motor. They falter and cough and sputter and knock. And, finally, they stall completely. They just don't seem to be able to "make the grade."

Apply the same test to people that you would apply to an automobile. Don't judge them on their performance on an easy downhill road. Wait and see how they act when the going is steep and rough. Then you will know what kind of stuff they have "under the hood"!

CURRENT SOVIET MILITARY STRATEGY

To find out the Soviet Union's current plans and policies, it is best not to listen to the propaganda statements which they give out for consumption in the West. Rather we should turn to what the leaders of the Kremlin are actually doing and what they write in their own publications. Then a view of Soviet military policy emerges which is far different from that which the Kremlin leaders would like us to believe they are following.

An article which appeared this spring in the Soviet armed forces daily "Krasnaya Zvezda" emphasizes that "national liberation wars" are the best way to destroy the United States. This article also stresses that Soviet military might is to a large part dependent on the health of the Soviet economy. As informed citizens are only too well aware, our government is greatly strengthening the Soviet economy through sales of grain and other forms of economic aid.

During the past 18 months, the Kremlin has made several changes in its military high command. According to a study by the Hudson Institute, "recent changes in the Soviet command structures have brought into prominence officers who have expressed a preference for an offensive emphasis."

To go along with this offensive strategy, the Soviet Navy has been prepared to fight well away from the coastal waters of Russia itself. The Kremlin's seven airborne divisions concentrate during maneuvers on seizing airfields and river crossings. Clearly the Kremlin leaders are not as interested in peace as their negotiators in Geneva would like us to believe. HLH

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
Nixon is Sorry for the Way He Treated President Truman

WASHINGTON-- President Nixon has told friends he is sorry for the way he treated President Harry Truman back in the late 1940s.

The shoe was on the other foot in those days. Nixon was the investigating congressman demanding White House files. He used malignant innuendo to suggest that Truman was soft on communism.

"The only way to save America," thundered young Nixon, "is to get rid of Trumanism...or whatever ism with which you choose to gat the whole sorry mess."

Now that Nixon is on the receiving end of congressional attacks, he has become a secret admirer of the gritty Truman. In private conversation, the President has praised Truman's "guts."

More and more, Nixon feels a kinship with the late Truman. Both were tough campaigners and outspoken partisans. Both were stubbornly loyal to their friends. Both once failed in a business and both played the piano.

It is painful for Nixon to admit a mistake, his friends acknowledge. But sometimes he wishes Harry Truman were still alive so he could apologize to him for the excesses of the 1940s.

LABOR AND NARCOTICS: One of America's most esteemed labor leaders is identified in Justice Department documents as the longtime friend of a major figure in world narcotics traffic to the United States.

The union official is Irving J. Brown, justly famed as a bulwark of free unionism against government- run Communist "unions." As AFL-CIO head in Europe and Africa, the 61- year- old Brown has labored for decades to better the life of oppressed workers.

Yet, in what seems like almost another life, he has befriended and housed France's notorious Maurice "Broken Head" Castellani and occasionally enters the twilight circle of other shadowy figures who operate the heroin pipeline to America.

The 49- year- old Castellani is identified in a classified Justice Department document as one of "the trimvirate leadership of the 'Trois Canards' ('Three Ducks'), an underworld organization involved in numerous illicit financial enterprises, not the least of which is narcotics."

CHARMING, DAPPER

Castellani's charm and dapper appearance have gained him entree to the presidential palace in Italy, the Justice narcotics agents have reported. His friends say a beating by the Gestapo for trying to transport Jews to freedom got him the nickname "Broken Head."

And his skill in smuggling narcotics has earned him eight single- spaced pages with addenda in a secret Justice Department file headed: "GF: Maurice Castellani."

Larded through this file are references to Brown, beginning with trans- Atlantic telephone calls between the two men almost a decade ago. When in New York, Castellani seldom had to look for hotels. As the report put it, "Brown...made (his) apartment available to Castellani whenever Castellani was in New York City."

Working from the apartment, Castellani met with Joseph Zurita, a Tangiers- and Casablance- based smuggler, or dropped in on his old pal, Francois Scaglia, an unlucky narcotics bigwig then doing time in New York's infamous Attica State Prison. The Justice report says Castellani was bringing "substantial amounts of money" for the jailed Scaglia.

WORRIED NARCS

Gradually, the friendship of the AFL- CIO's top European man with the narcotics magnate began to worry federal "narcs." They visited Brown and reported he "was receptive and readily answered questions (but) Brown did not provide any significant information...."

However, the labor officials agreed to permit the federal sleuths to bug his apartment. The Justice report notes gloomily that "no audible tapes were obtained."

Despite the agents' warning that Castellani was deep in narcotics, the trusting Brown let the smuggler keep a key to his apartment. The agents kept a weather eye on the flat.

Finding Castellani there one day, they popped in unexpectedly to interview him. The suave Castellani surprised them by agreeing "tentatively to cooperate." Yet this, too, turned into a dry hole.

NEGATIVE RESULTS

Meanwhile, fearful that Brown's United Nations affiliation through the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions would be used by him as "a possible smuggling route," the agents began to "monitor " him. Though U. S. Customs helped in the probe, Justice reported "negative results."

In ensuing years, Brown and Castellani have met frequently, most recently three months ago over dinner with several other friends. Brown has also maintained his social relationship with Zurita, but has not seen him for about a year.

Even less frequently, he has met men like the late Joe Attia, the organizational genius of a Southeast Asian- European- American drug ring and a former close associate to Castellani.

When we reached Brown by telephone in Paris, he charged the Justice Department report was "guilty by association." But in a long trans- Atlantic talk, he went through it with us point by point.

'NEVER PROVED IT'

The agents themselves had asked him not to alert Castellani by breaking off their friendship, he insisted. He later conceded he had made no report to the "narcs" since the late '60s.

In any case, he said, they had never proved to his satisfaction that Castellani was in narcotics and Castellani had denied it to him. Yet he admitted under questioning that he knew Castellani was in New York to see the jailed drug trafficker Scaglia. "A lot of people have friends in jail," he explained.

As to the apartment, Brown admitted he let Castellani have the key because "he found New York very expensive. I said, 'You can stop at my place. There's plenty of room.' "

When asked whether a man in his sensitive and important role should continue a decade-long friendship with a narcotics king- pin, Brown politely but firmly said no one was going to choose his friends for him.

NEW YORK (AP) — Things that make life worth living:

Standing under waterfalls — and staying out of pitfalls.

Walking a dog and making friends with a pretty girl who is out walking a dog, too — and hoping to meet a nice guy just like you.

Successfully lassoing at age 12 a neighbor's cat after 20 unsuccessful tries, and then having to climb up a ladder to retrieve both the cat and the lasso from a tree.

Eating a breakfast of bacon and eggs over a mountain campfire.

The music of Mozart, the prose of Lafcadio Hearn, the lyrics of Francis Thompson.

The ebbing of pain from a tornoff knee scab.

Scoring the winning touchdown in a sandlot scrub football game under the admiring gaze of the only red-haired girl in the world.

Turning down an invitation to join a class in karate for overweight men over 40.

A trip to a far and picturesque country so far behind the times that a dollar bill there is a thing of value.

Cleaning a freshly caught fish and finding in it someone's lost wedding ring. How did it happen? What is the story behind it?

Going to 11 a.m. Sunday church services and knowing the pastor will cut short his usual long sermon against sin, because he has a golfing date with you at the country club for 12:15 p.m. sharp.

Wrapping up a Christmas present which you are sure is exactly what the person you are sending it to really wants most of all.

The sound of an old-fashioned steam locomotive hooting through the hills like an obedient dragon on a mission of good will.

Making candy in the kitchen with an old lady who brags that as a girl she made the best fudge in the county.

Listening to a grandfather clock chime midnight in an old house where you are alone and just reading the climax of a good ghost story.

The durable thread of love in a long and cheer-filled marriage.

For these and other benefits of breath and being, our thanks, Amen.

State Rep. to appear in Bell City Court

BELL CITY — State Rep. Jerry T. Howard, a Piedmont Democrat, has been notified to appear in the Bell City traffic court, according to Stoddard County Sheriff Ralph E. Mouser.

Bell City Marshal Harold E. Tilley said Howard will be charged with running a stop sign and failure to stop for an officer's redlight.

Tilley said Tuesday that Howard's car went through Bell City about 7:50 p.m. Friday on Rock Ace Road and allegedly failed to stop at the stop sign at the intersection with Highway 91 before turning right onto the highway.

The marshal, along with three other persons, allegedly witnessed the action and the marshal pursued the car which stopped about two miles from town. He asked the driver to follow him back to Bell City because he had left his tickets in another car there, but the driver refused and "just drove off and left me talking to myself," Tilley said.

The legislator's car was stopped at Bloomfield by the Missouri State Highway Patrol and a Stoddard County deputy sheriff while Tilley was still following.

Tilley said he did not know Howard was a state representative until after he had returned to Bell City and someone informed him. Howard's district of the House of Representatives includes a portion of Stoddard County.

Arab gunmen invade Embassy

PARIS (AP) — Three Arab gunmen invaded the Saudi Arabian. Embassy today, took at least five hostages and threatend to blow up the building unless they were flown to an unnamed Arab capital, police said.

The assailants, who claimed to be members of a Palestinian splinter group, said they would trade the hostages for the release of Abou Daoud, a highranking Palestinian resistance leader held by King Hussein in Jordan.

The gunmen in the embassy gave a letter to Nawaf Adwan, a journalist for the Baghdad newspaper Al Thawra.

"They told me that they will blow up the embassy if there is not a bus waiting for them." Adwan said. "They do not want to leave without the hostages. When the French told them they could go freely without the hostages, since all this took place in an extraterritorial area, they said they would not accept."

The police said earlier the gunmen seemed to be softening their demands, but a police spokesman said later that the gunmen were not backing down.

The police and gunmen negotiated by shouting to each other.

Police Commissisoner Jean Bucheton said the Arabs claimed to be members of a Palestinian faction called Al Icab, meaning the punishment.

Seizure of the embassy puzzled guerrilla groups in Beirut. They disclaimed any connection with the action and said they knew nothing of a group called Al Icab.

The takeover occurred on the first anniversary of the Munich Olympics massacre of Israeli sportsmen by the Black September terrorist group, but there was no apparent connection.

As the negotiations at the embassy wore on, the gunmen put back by one hour the deadline for a bus to take them to Orly airport. The new time set for the curtained bus to be brought to the embassy was 5 p.m. local time or noon EDT.

Three of the hostages were reported to be the Saudi Arabian cultural attache, the embassy accountant and a translator.

The Kuwaiti ambassador to France was acting as an intermediary between the Palestinians and the police, Bucheton reported.

"We are waiting to see how the negotiations turn out," he said. "Any intervention is absolutely out of the question for the time being."

The three men burst into the embassy about 10 a.m. and neighbors heard shots fired in the two-story building on a quiet street near the headquarters of the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development. First reports said a madman was barricaded in one of the offices.

At about 11 a.m. a man leaped from a second-floor window and was apparently seriously injured. Police said they understood the man to give his name as Al Sharif Jaffa, a member of the embassy staff.

A sobbing young woman who said her uncle and father were trapped inside the building estimated that 16 to 20 persons are normally working in the chancellery before noon. A number of them are French employes.

The Saudi Arabian ambassador, Sheikh Mohammed Ali Reza, was not in his office when the terrorists arrived.

He later joined the Kuwait ambassador in negotiating with the gunmen. Shutters were closed at the upstairs windows of the embassy, but from time to time one shutter would go up slightly and one of the three men would stick out his head to talk in Arabic with the Saudi ambassador who served as interpreter for the police.

Sikeston firm low bidder

DEXTER — Bids were opened for the construction of four sewer districts at Tuesday's City Council meeting and the low bidder was Bridger Plumbing and Heating Co. of Sikeston.

Low bids for each district were as follows: District No. 73-1, $22,108.25; District No. 73-2, $32,937.35; District No. 73-3, $46,703; and District No. 73-4, $23,625.25. Expected completion time was set at 365 days.

The Rev. D. L. Huffman, representing the Dexter Ministerial Alliance and aided by a petition with 740 signatures, along with several Dexter citizens representing different churches throughout the city, asked the City Council to pass an ordinance reducing the number of package liquor licenses available to three instead of the five now available.

The Rev. Mr. Huffman stated he feels that alcohol and the drug problem are definitely related and, if necessary, he would bring to the council statements from former drug users who were first introduced to drugs through alcohol

He also stated that his complaint was not aimed at any particular person, but said he thinks Dexter already has a sufficient number of establishments in which liquor can be purchased.

After hearing a recommendation from a committee recently appointed to study the matter, the council voted to reduce the number of package liquor licenses available to three. The matter was brought to public attention when Herb Lee applied for a liquor license for a new sporting goods store which he plans to open at 7 N. Kitchen St.

Alderman Jack Smarr stated that all city employes who are eligible for the Lager's retirement plan have now been enrolled.

Acting Mayor James Williams instructed City Attorney Paul McGhee to write a letter to Virgil Mace asking him to clean up his property. Mace's house burned recently and no attempt has been made to clean up the damage.

The council passed ordinances to issue special tax bills for the paving of Walnut, Locust, Day and Page streets.

Total disbursement for August were $172,691.51

NEW FERRIES

SYDNEY (AP) — The government has ordered the building of two 800-passenger ferries for Sydney Harbor. The two, which will replace the 60-year-old Kosciusko and Kameruka, will cost $1,680,000 (U.S.).

Phillips fined

CHARLESTON-- Amos Phillips, 48, of Charleston, charged Tuesday with disturbing the peace, was fined $17 today in City Court. Charles L. Freeland, 58, of Charleston, arrested with Phillips, forfeited a $25 bond posted on the same charge.

Paying fines Tuesday were Charles E. Johnson, 43, of Charleston, driving while intoxicated, $107; Lula Mae Ware, 21, of Charleston, disorderly conduct, $17; and Lewis Thompson, 45, of Charleston, discharging a firearm in the city limits, $17.

Bernie Council accepts bid

BERNIE--- The City Council voted at Tuesday's meeting to accept a bid of $1,680 to remodel the city hall from Ray Building Supply in Bernie.

Ray Coats resigned as police commissioner and Wendell Moore was appointed to replace him.

Maxine Foster was chosen as the new city clerk.

The council voted to send Harold Stevens, utilities superintendent, to a water and sewer school for two weeks.

The council voted to make arrangements to record any inquiries to city hall so that proper action can be taken.

The city has completely revised its bookkeeping, checking and auditing system, and a new modern method will be used.

The council set Sept. 22 as fall clean- up day.

Kiwanis meet football coach

The Kiwanis Club met new Sikeston High School football coach Terry Smith who previewed his plans for the coming season Tuesday night at Ramada Inn.

Smith began by saying he was born and reared in southwestern Arkansas and is a University of Arkansas graduate. He is married and the father of two children.

Smith said about 70 boys turned out for football this year and, although they are only average ball players, they have tremendous attitudes. "The offensive line will be smallest in the conference," he said , then added that the team is working hard on passing and kicking techniques.

"The boys are building self confidence and are maintaining discipline by setting rules and then following them," he commented. The coach reported the team also has new red helmets and pants with a stripe down the leg which helped morale.

The Bulldogs will field a junior varsity team and have seven games scheduled, and the school is also starting an eighth grade program, Smith concluded.

5 appear in Prairie court

EAST PRAIRIE-- Five persons arrested over the weekend appeared in Police Court before Judge Sidney Drummond on Monday.

Ernest Easley of East Prairie, arrested for public intoxication and peace disturbance for the second time in two days, was fined $50. Jack Matthews of East Prairie, charged with public intoxication and breaking bottles in the city park, was ordered to work out a $50 fine.

Kenneth Sprinkles and Gregory Patrick of East Prairie each payed $10 fines on charges of running a stop sign. A $20 fine assessed Bill George of East Prairie on a peace disturbance charge is to be worked out on city streets.

Judge Drummond issued a warrant for Bill Kemp of East Prairie, who failed to appear on a charge of having no operator's license.

Madrid Council sets tax rate

NEW MADRID--- The 1974 property tax rate was set at $1.85 per $100 assessed evaluation at the City Council meeting Monday night, the same rate as 1973.

A breakdown of the rate shows 75 cents for bonded indebtedness, $1 for general revenue and 10 cents for the cemetery fund.

Based on the current valuation of $3,208,295, property owners will be billed a total of $59,353.46 for the next year.

A request by Sam Purser for a package liquor license at his new supermarket to be opened Sept. 12 on Route U was approved.

Power plant construction payments approved for the city's 600- megawatt steam generating plant in St. Jude Industrial Park totaled $48,302.24.

City Administrator Don Lloyd was authorized to attend a meeting Sept. 17 of the Commission for Municipal Pooling Services at 7 p.m. at the Sikeston Holiday Inn for discussion of the proposed purchase of natural gas facilities from Arkansas- Missouri Power Co. Other interested cities are Chaffee, Charleston, Kennett, Malden, Oran and Sikeston.

In his report to the council, Lloyd advised that tentative approval has been received from Bootheel Law Enforcement Assistance Council for funds to purchase new police radios.

Work should be completed this week on the repairs of sewer lines on Water Street damaged by the spring flooding which will allow removal of the temporary lines on Mott Street which bypass the damaged line.

In his work with the new Town Improvement Club in the clean- up of the northeast section of town, Lloyd said 22 property owners had been notified to clean up trash and debris from lots and more than half of this number have already made improvements. Several loads of trash have also been hauled away by the city.

Other improvements are being made by the State Highway Department on Route U, Lloyd said, for improvement of drainage by installing larger drainage culverts and improvements of ditches and grades.

Miss Bloomfield is August bride

ESSEX — Wedding vows uniting Miss Catherine Lee Bloomfield of Essex and David Carroll Mathis of Meridian Miss., were spoken Aug. 18 in a 7 o'clock ceremony at New Hope General Baptist Church on Essex Route One.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee W. Bloomfield of Essex Route 1 and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Mathis of 1014 Meadowlane Drive, Dexter.

Officiating at the double-ring ceremony was the Rev. Willard VanBibber.

Miss Marie Petty of Essex was painist and accompanied Terry Bowling, brother-in-law of the bride, as he sang, "Unchained Melody," and Mike Lane as he sang,"More". Bowling and Lane joined voices to sing, "Let It Be Me".

The alter setting featured a brass arch flanked with two bouquets of white gladiolis, white daisies and white baby's breath interspersed with greenery, and to each side were spiral candle holders with glowing white tapers. Potted palms extended the setting.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white silk organza and Chantilly lace. The dress was traditional in styling with a high neckline, long tapered sleeves and lace bodice. The skirt of silk organza had a front panel of tiers edged in sequined lace which swept to a chapel train. Her English tulle veil was held in place by a small Juliette cap of silk organza reembroidered with lace and sprinkled with pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses, white dasies and baby's breath entwined with ivy.

Mrs. Terry Bowling, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and Miss Beth Bloomfield, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Mrs. Bowling and Miss Bloomfield wore dresses in rose and yellow, respectively, styled with softly gathered skirts to high-rise waistlines. The bodices featured rounding necklines and short flared sleeves. Velvet ribbons tied in front of the floor length dresses. Veils of illusion matched their gowns, attached to Dior bows. They carried long- stemmed roses with long white streamers.

Bridesmaids were Miss Patty Lane, attired in a blue gown; Miss Cheryl Joseph, a pink ensemble; Miss Billy Williams, a pink costume; Miss Jane Langley, a peach colored frock; Miss Janie Gromer, yellow gown, and Miss Regina Kelly selected a blue gown. Styling matched the dresses worn by the matron and maid of honor.

Their headdresses were bows and tulle and they carried long stemmed white roses with flowing streamers.

Attending the groom as best man was his brother, Greg Mathis of Dexter, and groomsmen were Jerry Jarrell, David Smith, Greg Matthews, Terry Bowling, Mike Ward, Mike McGuire and Kerry Gilbow.

John Scott Mathis, brother of the groom, and Jeff Lawrence, cousin of the groom, were candlelighters.

Lee Bloomfield II, brother of the bride, and Mike Keasler, were ringbearers.

The men in the wedding party all wore tuxedoes in sky blue knit trimmed in black velvet accented with matching ruffled shirts, black velvet bow ties and back formal flares. Their boutonnieres were of white carnations.

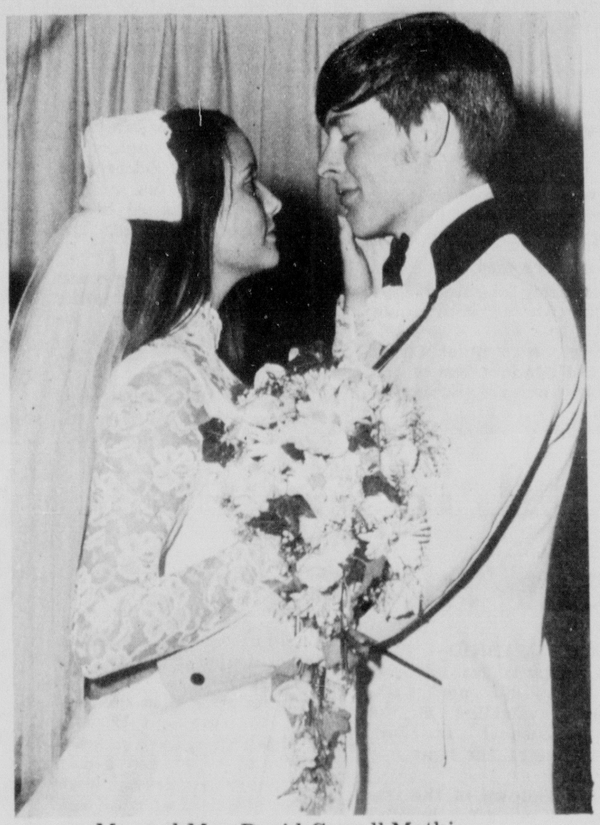
Jerry Jarrell and Kerry Gilbow seated the guests.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Bloomfield selected a floor- length, beige, double knit gown with a v-shaped neckline. The skirt and bodice gathered to a lined shaped midriff. She wore matching accessories and a yellow orchid.

Mrs. Mathis chose an apple green, double knit, floor- length gown in A-line styling trimmed in white with white accessories. She wore a white cymbidium orchid and white baby's breath.

Sandy Roberts and Lawanda Hicks, in dresses of pink, presided at the guest book.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church fellowship hall. The bride's table was covered with a white cloth, and pink ribbons with streamers caught at the corners of the table. The four- tiered wedding cake was flanked with white candles. The base of the cake was made of four heart- shaped cakes and each heart had a candy basket filled with multi- colored flowers. In the center was a miniature open Bible with the inscriptions, "I take thee Cathy and "I take thee David."



Mr. and Mrs. David Carroll Mathis

The third tier held two love birds nestled in multi-colored flowers, and the second tier was decorated with varied colored flowers. On top of the cake was a miniature bride and groom. Two punch bowls marked the ends of the table and silver dishes held nuts and mints.

Marie Petty, Sandy Roberts, Lawanda Hicks, Nola Kleffer and Gerry Norman presided at the serving table.

For a wedding trip south the bride chose a dark green, double knit, slack suit with a white rose corsage.

After Sept. 1, the couple will live in Meridian, Miss.

The bride is a 1973 graduate of Richland High School, and the groom graduated in 1972 from Dexter High. He is stationed in Meridian, Miss., with the U. S. Navy. The couple will both attend Meridian Junior College.

The rehearsal dinner was held at the Hickory Log restaurant in Dexter Aug. 17 at 9 p.m. The dining room tables were decorated with floral arrangements of white daisies, white baby's breath and green ivy. White place cards featured a bride and groom. The rehearsal dinner, given by the groom's parents, was attended by 40 guests, which included members of the wedding party and their families.

Special guests were the bride's paternal grandmother, Mrs. D. L. Bloomfield of Sikeston; the groom's maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Lawrence of Gray Ridge; an aunt and uncle of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Lawrence of Dexter and Pual Head of St. Louis.

Gifts were presented to members of the wedding party at the dinner.

Former Sikestonian marries in Florida

AIKEN, S.C. — Miss Margaret Jeannette Foreman and Wayne Adrian Hulehan were united in marriage at 7 p.m. Sept. 1 in the Aiken First Baptist Church by Dr. Robert L. Cate.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ashley Foreman Jr. of Aiken, and Hulehan is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Adrian Hulehan of Pensacola, Fla., former residents of Sikeston, Mo.

The bride wore an original gown in light ivory Swiss organza accented with hand run Alencon lace of English net with seed pearls and aurora sequins embroidery. The ring neckline featured lace medallions with centers of clusters of seed pearls. The front panel of the gown was of English net and lace appliques; and the full skirt fell from a back belt into an aisle wide cathedral length train.

The bride wore an heirloom, Brussels rosepoint, lace mantilla and carried a bouquet of phaelanopsis orchids and stephanotis in an elongated cascade.

Miss Dotty Foreman of Aiken, sister of the bride; Mrs. Rex Maynard of Belton, cousin of the bride; Mrs. John Cywanowicz of New Orleans, La., sister of the groom; Mrs. Judy Barge of Parsippany, N.J.; Miss Resel Gosnell of Columbia; and Mrs. Maxwell Vallotton of Augusta, Ga., were attendants.

They were gowned alike in aqua organza. Their dresses featured V- necklines outlined in double ruffles of organza extending to the front empire waistlines. Fitted bodices, long fitted sleeves with ruffles extending over the hand and full skirts finished in deep gathered flounces were featured. Each carried a colonial bouquet of bridesmaid pink roses and lilies of the valley.

The groom's father served as best man. Others attending the groom were Michael Buchanan of Sikeston as usher and Paul Griffin of Washington, D.C., Edward Rasking of Arlington, Va., James Cohron of Milton, Fla., Robert Cogar of Vero Beach, Fla., and Jerry Curtis of Nashville, Tenn., as groomsmen.

A reception followed the ceremony in the garden of the home of the bride's parents.

After a honeymoon trip to The Cloister in Sea Island, Ga., the couple will live in Arlington, Va.

Ann Landers

Reader awakens others to outmoded shoe ideas

Dear Ann Landers: You are perhaps one of the most powerful forces for education in the country. Please help millions of people by giving them some straight facts about their two best friends--- their feet.

There are no laws to make the shoe industry establish uniform sizes. The present sizing system was established by King Henry VIII. Three barleycorns equaled one inch. The largest foot in the kingdom was believed to be 39 barleycorns long (13 inches)--- hence, size 13. A trained shoe salesman knows that width is just as important as length.

Please don't argue with the shoe salesman if he tells you the shoe you chose is not right for you. Too many customers get their heart set on a certain style and they want it even though it's a poor fit and will cause them trouble. When fitting shoes for children the biggest problem is parents. They are too permissive. No child should be allowed to have shoes unless the salesman says they fit correctly. A reputable store is always happy to take back faulty shoes, but they are not pleased when customers damage shoes so they will have an excuse to return them.

Most shoe salesmen work on commission. If you find a good one, stick with him. He'll appreciate it and you'll have happy feet.--- Mrs. D.E.P., Grand River, Ohio

Dear Mrs. D.E.P.: Funny how nobody attaches any special significance to his feet until they hurt. Thanks for educating us on the least appreciated part of the human anatomy.

Dear Ann: Your piece on gun legislation should be printed EVERY MONTH. Where does our love of guns come from? It is a national disgrace and it shows our pathetic lack of positive values.

Someone tried to teach the power of love 2,000 years ago. Have we learned nothing in all that time? What do wars say about the human race? I wouldn't attempt to answer that question. It hurts too much and it makes me too ashamed.--- Heartache In Oregon

Dear Heartache: Thank you for your sensitive, thoughtful letter. It was like a breath of fresh air amidst the thousands of hysterical cries from frightened Americans who foolishly believe that guns are going to protect them.

The more guns loose, the more people are going to get killed. It has to happen. At least 80 per cent of the gun murders are performed by "friends," neighbors or relatives. They are the unplanned acts of violence of an enraged, out- of- control assailant. If no gun were available, the attacker would vent his anger with a fist, a hammer, a knife, a ball bat or a frying pan--- and the chance of fatal results from such weapons is far less than from the 90 million handguns floating around this country.

It is true, as many of you have written to say, that the criminal who wants a gun will get one. But the vast majority of gun killings are not acts of premeditated murder. They are impetuous or drunken responses to anger or frustration. If these hotheads had no guns they'd put people in hospitals instead of morgues. If you don't believe me, talk to a police officer who has worked in homicide. He knows the score.

No Battery Hearing Aid

COST OF BATTERIES---GOING HIGHER AND HIGHER--- NO END IN SIGHT

(ST. LOUIS SPECIAL). An all new hearing aid that eliminates normal changing of batteries has been developed and is saving money for hearing aid users throughout the country. The hearing aid is moderate in price, yet superior to other much higher priced instruments. The nickel cadium power cell eliminates changing batteries and does away with background noise and hum in the amplifier. The automatic suppression circuit controls those too loud noises, helps your hearing and understanding in church, noisy restaurants, in traffic and crowds. East Prairie woman put on probation

NEW MADRID— Geraldine Carter of East Prairie pleaded guilty to burglary and larceny charges Tuesday in Circuit Court before Judge William L. Ragland who placed her under probation with supervision after she was given a two-year sentence.

She was among several charged in the break- in in September 1971 of a house on New Madrid Route One owned by A. C. Riley.

Fine and costs totaling $71 were assessed Houston Lafferty of Portageville, charged with purchasing a firearm without a permit, and against Jimmy Dale Bridges of Portageville, charged with selling a firearm without a permit.

Stanley Mack Tyra was levied $51 fine and costs when he pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor charge of tampering with a motor vehicle.

For failure to appear on opening day of the September term on criminal charges, warrants were ordered issued for the arrest of Johnny Johnson, charged with statutory rape; Henry Burrows, breaking and entering, and Chalbert R. Nelson, leaving the scene of an accident.

In a change of venue case from Butler County, $1,750 judgment for personal injuries was awarded Phyllis Fischer against Donna Smith and Patricia Sobelman.

A change of venue to Mississippi County was granted Bennie Lusk of New Madrid charged with murder of Elbert T. Johnson on July 16, 1972.

Frank Kingston, charged with driving while intoxicated, was granted a change of venue to Scott County.

Oct. 19 was set as trail date for Bruce Joseph Wright, 16, of Portageville, charged with murder in the shooting death of Larry Allen Williams, 16, of Portageville on March 31.

In a jury trail Friday, a $3,500 judgment for damages was awarded to the Leonard A. Davis estate and Mrs. Leonard A. Davis in a condemnation suit filed by M and A. Electric Power Cooperative.

Administration wanted Burlison re-elected

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — The Nixon administration included four congressmen from Missouri on a list of Democrats it wanted to see re-elected last fall, Mrs. Rosemary Ginn, the state's Republican national committeewoman said Thursday.

She said they included:

Richard Ichord, Bill D. Burlison, William J. Randall and Richard Bolling. All were reelected.

"I assumed the White House preferred not to have them defeated. I regret that these names were on the list," she said.

Mrs. Ginn said she did not know whether the Democrats got financial aid. She checked on the list at the request of David Countie, Republican from Ballwin who lost to Ichord in the 8th District race. Countie said he had to raise his own campaign funds and might have won if he had some extra help. "No help came from the White House, although I badly needed it," Countie said.

Ichord, Randall and a spokesman for Bolling said no financial or political help was received from the Republicans. Randall said he had heard reports in Washington, in connection with the Senate's Watergate investigation, "There were some Democratic members of the House the administration didn't actively oppose."

Burlison was not available for comment.

Lawrence K. Roos, supervisor of St. Louis County and recently-named Republican national committeeman from Missouri, was in charge of the President's Re-Election Committee last year. He said:

"If this was done, it came out of Washington....I know of no move by Missourians or by the Missouri group to use the money to elect these Democratic candidates."

What's the Law?

The case of the sensitive nose

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

When a narcotics agent received word from a reliable informant that Ella would be bringing "grass" into the United States, he hurried to a nearby kennel where he picked up Charley. While Charley rarely brooded over being a dog, he apparently relished his status as a trained detector of marijuana.

In fact, Charley graduated with honors from a special school where he achieved a test accuracy of 90 per cent or better in sniffing out the weed. And in the field he was known to have made oniy two mistakes in his entire marijuana sniffing career.

Consequently, when Ella entered the United States and Charley began scratching and barking at one of her satchels, the agent was satisfied that it contained marijuana. Without ado, he took the satchel from Ella's hand, and, needless to say, he found several sticks of marijuana inside.

Charged with illegal possession of marijuana, Ella insisted that the evidence was illegally obtained and couldn't be used against her.

"Searching my suitcase without reason," she claimed, "was illegal."

"I had good reason," was the agent's answer. "Aside from the tip from the informant, I'd trust Charley's sensitive nose every time."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you hold that Ella was the victim of an illegal search?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that Charley's sensitive nose, highly trained in detecting marijuana odors, was sufficient corroboration of the informant's tip to allow the agent to open Ella's satchel

Attache Duty

"By direction of the Secretary of War, officers of the Army when serving as Military Attaches, or when on other military duty abroad, will be entitled to the following allowances: A suitable furnished office, when needed, if one can be rented at reasonable cost, or an unfurnished room and the following furniture, to be purchased by the Quartermaster Department: One desk or table, six chairs, one book or file case. In either of these cases, the regulation allowances for fuel for one office fire."

War Department General Order Number 19
25 February 1890

There are probably some who believe this austerity still exists for those who volunteer to serve as military attaches in remote posts around the world. The general lack of knowledge about the attache program makes attache duty ripe for rumors and myths which indeed engulf the truth about serving as an attache.

We hope this brief article will eliminate some of the rumors and bring to light some of the truths about our Army Attache system.

THE EDITOR

WASHINGTON (ANF)—The Defense attache system is operated and administered by the Defense Intelligence Agency, using personnel from all the Armed Services.

The Army has about 250 officers, warrant officers and enlisted men and women stationed with more than 70 American embassies around the world.

The attache system is a career field for Army warrant officers (MOS 961A) and enlisted personnel (MOS 71S). Enlisted personnel who possess a well-rounded administrative background and perform in a manner better than most are often considered for appointment to warrant officer.

Many high ranking officers have served as attaches, including Generals John J. Pershing and Maxwell D. Taylor. Since 1945, more than 100 attaches have attained general officer rank including Lt. Gen. William A. Knowlton, superintendent of the U.S. Military Academy.

ATTACHE DUTY IS A FAMILY EFFORT. Wives are considered a vital part of the "attache team." Rarely in other assignments does so much depend on the family effort. They entertain often, usually informally in their own houses.

To prepare the attache team for their tour, the men and women selected for the attache system are extensively trained in language and in the intricacies of attache work. This training may last as long as 16 months. Wives receive training with their husbands.

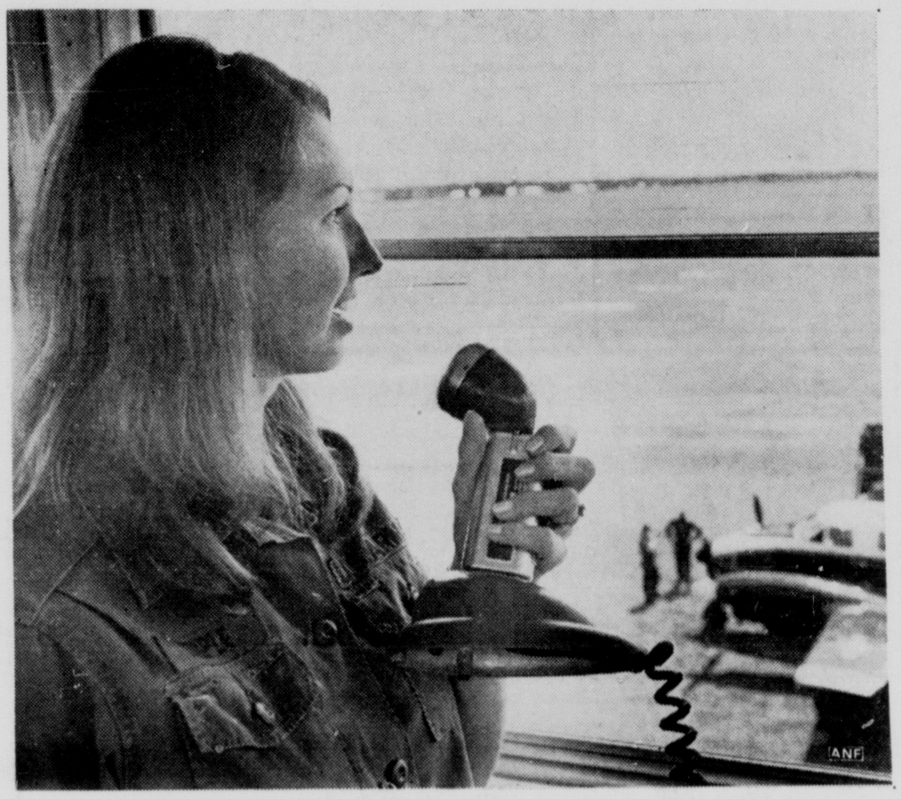
Although the life of an attache's family cannot be compared to military-post living, the government normally does provide for adequate housing, medical service, dependent schools and recreational facilities.

THE LIFE OF AN ATTACHE IS EXCITING—but does include a lot of hard work. Attaches follow the reports developed on armed forces of foreign countries and maintain service to service communications on matters of interest.

Attaches are members of the ambassador's staff and deal constantly with senior military and civil officials of the host government. As representatives of the secretary of the Army and the chief of staff, they have direct contact with the highest military officials abroad.

Because of the criticality of their positions and the nature of their duties, all personnel for the attache system are carefully screened prior to acceptance. Only the very best are sent as representatives of the Army and the United States.

Since 1889, the Army has searched for the "right" men to fill the attache positions. The search is still continuing. Details on requirements for attaches are found in AR 611-60. Specific information on individual posts and additional information is available from the U.S. Army Attache Administrative Detachment, DAMI-AA, OACSI,DA, Washington, D.C. 20310.



SHE KEEPS COOL—Sp4 Kathy Temple is a military-trained air traffic controller and the first female Iowa National Guard member to attend summer field exercises at Camp Ripley, Minn. The 20-year-old specialist, who is an inspector at an electrical products plant in western Illinois, has a primary responsiblities to direct pilots on landing patterns and operations at Camp Ripley airfield during the current two-week summer encampment.

The Company Commander, Capt. Ronald Christensen, said that having a woman in the male-dominated unit has not created any major problems. The 1105th Aviation Company did have to arrange for special barracks for specialist Temple—the only woman among the approximately 4,000 Iowa Guardsmen at Camp Ripley. She is quartered in a special section of the camp which has been posted "Off Limits to Male Personnel."

Several women have joined the Iowa National Guard in recent months, but most are still involved in orientation and unable to attend the two-week summer encampment. (ANF)

SUNNY OUTLOOK — Embroidered flowers adorn the waistband of this halter-styled chambray sun dress. In a cotton blend, it comes in blue or natural. By Koret of California.

PICTURE-PRETTY—Spring flowers blossom out in poppy red, lavender, and gold on this white cotton satin formal worn by 1973 Maid of Cotton Debra Ploch. By Teal Traina, the V-necked gown is cut deep in back and set off with a ribbon-striped belt. A matching triangular scarf completes the look.

The modern day "bikini," a garment that covers very little, didn't take this name until after the first atom bomb tests were made at Bikini, a small remote atoll in the Pacific. Mushroom clouds had hardly settled before designers brought out these most daring swim suits. Awed males compared the effect of such clothing with an atom blast, and thus the name "bikini" was born.

Our designers and engineers have dared to bringout the stylish appearance and beauty, as well as the efficiency of a Water Refiner. Designed to fit any decor, a Water Refiner, with its new clean look will not age nor become outdated. After years of service, just the wipe of a damp cloth will bring out the finish beautifully; it fits nicely with other appliances, and saves you needless cleaning bills and hard scrubbing. Keep up with today's needs in Refined Water and keep in style with a Water Refiner from

The Whole Volkswagen Down Payment Story

$125.*

All it takes is $125 cash down to get your hands on a bug. Then with $76.04 a month for 36 months, it's yours forever.*

(If your head isn't an instant computer, that works out to a deferred payment price of $2862.44X which includes a finance charge at an ANNUAL PERCENTAGE RATE OF 10.20%.)

What makes our payment plan even nicer is that you get paid back for driving a VW.

Since it only requires about 5 pints of oil instead of 5 quarts.

And you don't have to buy antifreeze because of the Volkswagen's air-cooled engine.

And you can usually travel about 25 miles or so on one gallon of gas.

Of course, if you want to avoid financing, we have another payment plan. It's called cash.

In which case the cash price is $2478

*Volkswagen Sedan 111, with standard 4-speed transmission. Credit terms listed apply to qualified buyers only.

Today in U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, Sept. 5, the 248th day of 1973. There are 117 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1774, the first Continental Congress assembled at Carpenter's Hall in Philadelphia.

On this date—

In 1670, William Penn was arrested for holding a Quaker meeting in London.

In 1885, Jake Gumper of Fort Wayne, Ind. bought the first gasoline pump to be manufactured in this country.

In 1896, because of the gold rush in the Klondike, the first beefsteak to reach Circle City, Alaska, sold at $48 a pound.

In 1905, the treaty of Portsmouth, N.H. ended the Russo-Japanese War.

In 1939, the United States proclaimed neutrality in World War II.

Occasionally a performer will ask them to write a song especially for him. Jerry related one instance where a well- known Grand Ole Opry star requested a song. They wrote "Would You Take Another Chance on Me." The star who requested it never recorded it. It was later recorded by Jerry Lee Lewis and became No. 1.

The initial placement of the first four mini- buses will be determined solely by the location and concentration of current paid memberships. The executive director of transportation for the organization will work closely with the various local groups during this time to gather all information and coordinate the total area efforts.

Additional buses will be added over the next 12 months to create a system of 11 vehicles of the the initial fleet. As interest and support develops, the system may be enlarged. Previous studies have shown that a minimum of at least 500 members are required to support the operation of each bus.

Local monies are necessary to raise matching funds. The funds may come from donations by individuals of any age, businesses, corporations, churches, civic clubs, etc. The project's local matching funds for 1973-74 if $53,258 and must be raised as soon as possible.

In 1974- 75, this matching amount will about double. In following years, the local share will increase to 100 per cent as state and federal amounts are phased out and the system becomes completely self- supporting as a non- profit corporation.

Operating monies will come from $5 annual memberships for those eligible to ride the buses, plus a per mile charge for most trips. Some group excursions may be arranged at a flat trip rate.

All 27 counties are represented in the organization overseeing the new system. The board has its president, Dr. J. Larry Josey of Rolla. Other officers are Sparrel W. Davis of Malden, vice president; Dr. Douglas K. Ross of Farmington, secretary; and Mrs. Joyce Pickert of Fredericktown, treasurer.

Anyone desiring more information should write to Southeast Missouri Transportation System, Inc., Dr. Douglas K. Ross, 215 E. Columbia, Farmington, Mo., or phone 756-5760 or 756-6142.

Sports

HOUSTON (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds beat the Houston Astros 12-7 Tuesday night and the victory, coupled with San Francisco's 3-0 victory over Los Angeles, put the Reds in first place in the National League West.

In the NL East, the St. Louis Cardinals increased their lead over Pittsburgh to two games, beating the Pirates 4-2. The Cards scored the tie-breaking run in the eighth inning on a controversial play in which Lou Brock was first called out, then ruled safe.

ANAHEIM (AP) — The Oakland A's increased their hold on first place in baseball's American League West to 4½ games as they beat the California Angels 4-3. Second-place Kansas City lost 6-0 to the Minnesota Twins.

The Boston Red Sox closed to within five games of first-place Baltimore in the AL East, edging the Orioles 2-1 on Ben Ogilvie's homer in the 12th inning.

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Stan Smith, top-seeded in the men's division at the U.S. Open Tennis Championships, had to rally for a 3-6, 7-5, 6-3, 6-4 victory over Tom Gorman Tuesday. Reaching the quarter-finals along with Smith were Jan Kodes, Nikki Pilic and Onny Parun.

Women's favorite Margaret Court became the first to gain the semifinals, beating Virginia Wade 7-6, 7-6.

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — The New York Nets of the American Basketball Association traded former Marquette All-American center Jim Chones to the Carolina Cougars for a high 1974 draft choice and cash Tuesday.

Chones averaged 11.3 points and 7.2 rebounds for the Nets last season, his first in the pros.

In National Basketball Association developments, veteran guard Dick Barnett of the New York Knicks retired after 13 seasons as a pro, and the Capitol Bullets sent forward John Tresvant to the Chicago Bulls for future considerations.

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — Rich Glover, the Lineman of the Year in college football and an All-American at Nebraska last year, was placed on waivers Tuesday by the New York Giants of the National Football League.

Meanwhile, the Chicago Bears dropped wide receivers Jim Seymour, a former collegiate star at Notre Dame, and Bob Wallace, and the Detroit Lions acquired two defensive backs—Gene Howard from Los Angeles and Willie Germany from Atlanta.

BELGRADE (AP) — John Hencken, a 19-year-old sophomore at Stanford University, broke the world 100-meter breaststroke record twice Tuesday at the World Swimming Championships. Hencken was timed in 1:04.35 in a qualifying heat, then won the final in 1:04.2.

His efforts helped the U.S. take the first-day lead in the medal race. The Americans won nine medals, including five golds, to East Germany's eight medals, four golds.

Cards win controversy, expand lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"He's out," said Bill Virdon of the Pittsburgh Pirates. "He's safe," said Red Schoendienst of the St. Louis Cardinals.

"He's out," said umpire Eddie Vargo. "He's safe," said umpire Bruce Froemming.

Not only were the managers unable to agree but it also took two umpires to figure out what happened in a key play of the Cardinals' 4-2 victory Tuesday night.

Losing 2-0 going into the climactic eighth inning, the Cardinals scored three times and the tie-breaking run was the one that started all the confusion.

Lou Brock was on third base when Pirate reliever Dave Giusti threw a wild pitch. Brock came home as catcher Manny Sanguillen recovered quickly and threw to Giusti, who was covering the plate.

Home plate umpire Vargo immediately signaled "out," but several Cardinals stormed off their bench to protest. Schoedienst insisted that Vargo consult with second base umpire Froemming and he eventually called the runner safe.

"When Vargo asked me if the ball was loose, I said it was," Froemming said, explaining the decision.

In the other National League games, the San Francisco Giants trimmed the Los Angeles Dodgers 3-1; the Atlanta Braves turned back the San Diego Padres 3-0; the Cincinnati Reds beat the Houston Astros 12-7 in 10 innings; the New York Mets defeated the Philadelphia Phillies 7-1 and the Montreal Expos nipped the Chicago Cubs 3-2.

Rookie Dave Parker drove in two runs with a homer and triple as the Pirates took an early 2-0 lead over the Cardinals. Then came the argumentative eighth.

Giants 3, Dodgers 1

Ron Bryant allowed only one hit and got last-out relief help from Elias Sosa to pitch San Francisco over Los Angeles 3-1. Bryant, the National League's top winner with 21 decisions, had a no-hitter going until Joe Ferguson singled up the middle with one out in the seventh.

Braves 3, San Diego 0

Roric Harrison and Joe Niekro combined on an eighthitter and Dusty Baker blasted a two-run homer to lead Atlanta past San Diego 3-0. Harrison bested Rich Troedson with eighth-inning relief help from Niekro as the Padres lost their eighth straight game.

Reds 12, Astros 7

Pinch-hitter Phil Gagliano drove in the winning run with a squeeze bunt single in the 10th inning and streaking Cincinnati exploded for five runs with two out to beat Houston 12-7. Mets 7, Phillies 1

Tom Seaver fired a four-hitter and struck out 13, pitching New York over Philadelphia 7-1. Seaver raised his season strikeout total to 218, tops in the National League. It was the fifth time this year that Seaver has struck out 10 batters or more in one game.

Expos 3, Cubs 2

Rookie right-hander Steve Rogers won his third straight game, limiting Chicago to five hits as Montreal nipped the Cubs 3-2.

American League scores: Boston 2, Baltimore 1 in 12 innings; Detroit 2, New York 1; Cleveland 5, Milwaukee 4; Minnesota 6, Kansas City 0; Chicago 14, Texas 0 and Oakland 4, California 3.

White Sox bomb Rangers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Recognition of the fast-approaching football season, the Chicago White Sox scored two touchdowns complete with extra points against the Texas Rangers Tuesday night.

Playing baseball, the White Sox ran up a football-like 14-0 score against the Rangers with Carlos May contributing a tworun homer and Jim Kaat tossing a five-hitter.

It was Chicago's sixth straight victory and the 10th in the last 11 games for the White Sox, who've been using a rookie-dotted lineup. Freshman Bill Sharp led a 13-hit Chicago attack with three hits and two runs batted in.

Elsewhere in the American League Tuesday night, Boston nipped Baltimore 2-1 in 12 innings, Detroit edged New York 2-1, Cleveland overtook Milwaukee 5-4, Minnesota shut out Kansas City 6-0, and Oakland trimmed California 4-3.

The White Sox jumped Jim Bibby for five runs in the first three innings and then exploded for six runs in the sixth inning with May's 17th homer touching off the rally.

Red Sox 2, Orioles 1

Ben Oglivie's leadoff homer in the 12th inning boosted Boston to a 2-1 decision over Baltimore and cut the Orioles' first place lead in the American League East to five games over the Red Sox.

Tigers 2, Yankees 1

Rookie Ron Cash's first major league hit drove in Detroit's winning run as the Tigers trimmed the New York Yankees 2-1.

Cash, purchased by the Tigers from their Toledo farm club Tuesday, drilled a second inning single off Mel Stottlemyre, 13-14, to deliver Detroit's deciding run against the Yankees. Duke Sims had singled and raced to third on an error before Cash delivered his hit.

Twins 6, Royals 0

Bert Blyleven's four-hit pitching moved Minnesota past Kansas City 6-0. It was the eighth shutout this season, tops in the majors, for the Twins' righthander, 17-14.

George Mitterwald's two-run double gave Blyleven a quick lead in the first inning. The Minnesota pitcher said that early edge helped. "I'm usually nervous before a game anyway and when we get a couple of early runs, I can really challenge them," he said.

Indians 5, Brewers 4

Frank Duffy's two-run ninth inning home run lifted Cleveland to a 5-4 victory over Milwaukee.

The Brewers took a 4-2 lead into the ninth but John Lowenstein's leadoff homer put the Indians within reach and then, after Charlie Spikes drew a two-out walk, Duffy tagged his dramatic shot.

A's 4, Angels 3

Oakland's Ken Holtzman became the third 20-game winner in the majors this season, besting California 4-3. He joins Wilbur Wood of the Chicago White Sox and Ron Bryant of the San Francisco Giants, who reached 20 earlier.

It marks the first time Holtzman has ever won 20 in a single season.

National League scores: Montreal 3, Chicago 2; New York 7, Philadelphia 1; St. Louis 4.

Ziegenhorn champs

Eddie Throop slammed a three run homer and Dave Mulcahy held Budweiser to six hits as Ziegenhorn swept to the championship of the Sikeston Fast Pitch Tournament Tuesday night, 7-3.

Ziegenhorn jumped out to a 3- 0 lead in the first inning and sewed up the game with Throop's fourth inning blast. Vernon Dean suffered the loss.

Aaron had a double and scored one run in Atlanta's 3-0 victory over San Diego Tuesday night. He walked on four straight pitches in the first inning, doubled off the left field wall, barely missing a homer in the fourth, hit into a double play in the sixth and walked in the eighth.

HOUSTON (AP) — The surging Cincinnatti Reds moved into a first- place tie with Los Angeles in the National League West Division, beating the Houston Astros 4-3 Monday night, while the Dodgers were losing to the San Francisco Giants 11-8.

Rookie Ken Griffey's two - run pinch single in the eighth inning lifted the Reds to their victory. Bobby Bonds' grand slam homer in the ninth capped the Giants, come back from an 8-1 deficit and gave them their triumph over the Dogers.

The St. Louis Cardinals remained one game ahead of the Pittsburgh Pirates in the NL East. The Pirates beat St. Louis 5-4 in the opener of their doubleheader on Richie Hebner's inside- the- park homer in the 13th inning, then the Cards took the nightcap 8-3.

Martin retracts statement

DETROIT AP— Billy Martin claims he lied about the incident which led to his being fired as manager of the Detroit Tigers.

Martin says he never told pitchers Joe Coleman and Fred Scherman to throw spitballs in a game last week against Cleveland.

Coleman and catcher Duke Sims, meanwhile, also say Martin didn't order spitters thrown.

"They had gotten together with Duke Sims in the dugout and decided to prove that the umpires didn't know what a spitter was," Martin told one reporter. "The first I knew of it was when I saw Coleman wetting his fingers on the mound.

"Once that happened I had to stand behind my players," he continued. "I knew they'd be fined or suspended for what they had done and I couldn't let that happen. I needed them to pitch."

Martin told newsmen after last Thursday's 3- 0 loss to the Indians, alleged spitball specialist Gaylord Perry that he had ordered the illegal pitches to bring the controversy "to a head."

"I'm admitting it," he said then. "We threw spitters tonight. Obvious spitters. On purpose."

He said it was at his order.

Friday Martin was suspended by American League President Joe Cronin, who said the action was taken "for directing your pitchers to throw illegal pitches and publicly stating that you have done so."

Sunday Martin was fired by Jim Campbell, Tiger general manager, who said the spitball incident wasn't the sole reason but the final straw in a long line of incidents leading to the sacking.

Asked Tuesday if he would have fired Martin had he known Martin did not order the spitters, Campbell said: "All I know is that he told the public. He teils the truth. When I heard him tell it on his radio show the next morning I figured it was the truth. That was Billy telling it in person.

Nebraska 2-TD favorite

NEW YORK (AP) — Better late than never, here is the first prediction of the college football season: New Mexico State 27, Drake 12.

The rest of the crystal-balling can't get any better than that...because that game was played last Saturday to open the college season. Hindsight is much easier than foresight.

At any rate, there are 23 games on tap this weekend. A word of warning: any resemblance between the predicted scores and the actual results is purely coincidental.

Last year's regular-season score was 487 right, 196 wrong and 14 ties for a .713 percentage.

The big game this weekend is the revenge clash between Nebraska and UCLA at Lincoln, Neb. A year ago, Nebraska invaded Los Angeles with a 32-game unbeaten string and hopes of becoming the first team ever to win three consecutive national championships.

UCLA ended that dream with a 20-17 upset on Efren Herrera's last-minute field goal.

"All of us recognize the fact that a year ago we were fortunate enough to upset Nebraska and break their win streak," says UCLA Coach Pepper Rodgers. "If it was the other way around, I know we would certainly be looking forward to a rematch—and from everything I hear and read, the Cornhuskers feel exactly as we would under the same circumstances."

It will be UCLA's Wishbone ground game—Kermit Johnson, James McAlister, Mark Harmon and soph Eddie Ayers— against the pin-point passing of Dave Humm, Nebraska's lefty quarterback.

The first legitimate prediction of the season...Nebraska 28, UCLA 14.

North Carolina State 42, East Carolina 27—N.C. State is 17th in the preseason rankings and also Nebraska's next opponent. Both sides potent on offense.

Louisville 28, Memphis State 7—This could have been for the Missouri Valley championship until Memphis quit the conference. Watch for new Louisville Coach T.W. Alley to follow in Lee Corso's footsteps with a trick or two of his own.

Arizona 27, Colorado State 20—Jim Young wins his debut. Sark Arslanian loses his debut.

West Texas State 34, Drake 12—Buffaloes have one of the country's foremost running attacks with Billy Pritchett and Cole Fraley. They're too much for Jerry Heston, Drake's oneman gang.

Mississippi 35, Villanova 7— Southern hospitality? What's that?

Other games:

Grambling 21, Long Beach State 7; Virginia Tech 17, William & Mary 14; Virginia 35, VMI 14; Clemson 10, The Citadel 7; Massachusetts 28, Holy Cross 7; Temple 35, Xavier 0; Texas-El Paso 17, Idaho 14; North Texas State 21, Texas-Arlington 20; Davidson 24, Wofford 17; Dayton 20, Youngstown State 6; Presbyterian 17, Furman 14; Fresno State 20, Cal Poly, Pomona 12; New Mexico State 21, Lamar 14; Northern Illinois 35, Indiana State 7; Pacific 27, Sacramento State 7; San Jose State 28, Santa Clara 14; Western Michigan 14, Central Michigan 10.

Giants waiver Glover

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rich Glover, upset by the announcement that the New York Giants had asked waivers on him, was questioned about his possible future in pro football.

Still shaken and trembling from the unexpected development, the two-time All-American and 1972 winner of the Outland and Vince Lombardi Trophys as the outstanding lineman in college football, replied confidently: "I feel I can make it with any team, at any position on the line or linebacker."

The National Football League team that Glover would like to make it with is the Giants.

And he might eventually get that chance.

In placing Glover on waivers Tuesday, the Giants said if another team claimed the former Nebraska star that he would be restored to the roster. And if he went unclaimed, he would be placed on the taxi squad.

"I never thought this would happen," said the 6-foot-1, 240-pounder who was not selected until the third round of the NFL draft because he was considered too small to be a pro lineman and not quick enough to be a linebacker.

In addition to cutting Glover, the Giants reached Tuesday's 44-player limit by dropping veteran defensive back Otto Brown and rookie wide receiver Walter Love. All NFL teams must get down to 40 players by next Monday.

There was a lot of other player shuffling Tuesday. The Chicago Bears cut four players, including wide receivers Jim Seymour, a former star at Notre Dame, and Bob Wallace, and deactivated offensive tackle Randy Jackson and linebacker Jimmy Gunn because of injuries.

The Detroit Lions, plagued by injuries to defensive backs Rudy Redmond and Wayne Rasmussen, acquired defensive backs Gene Howard from the Los Angeles Rams and Willie Germany from the Atlanta Falcons for future draft picks.

The San Francisco 49ers sent linebacker Marty Huff to the Buffalo Bills for a draft choice. Veteran defensive tackle Tom Keating, nursing a knee injury, was placed on the inactive list by Pittsburgh, while the Steelers cut guard Ron Curl and defensive end Nate Dorsey.

Quarterback Lynn Dickey, suffering from a hand injury, was deactivated by the Houston Oilers and replaced on the roster by linebacker Paul Guidry. And the New Orleans Saints cut two free agents—tight end Chris Vella and running bac Frank McGuigan.

Meanwhile, the Miami Dolphins said that veteran defensive tackle Jim Dunaway suffered a compressed fracture of a spinal vertebrae in last week's exhibition game against Minnesota and would be sidelined at least eight weeks.

MU fourth

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Tom Osborne, in his first season as head coach at Nebraska, will guide the Cornhuskers to the 1973 Big Eight Conference football championship.

After a tour of Big Eight practice fields, it appears that Nebraska, as is often the case, has at least slightly too much for the rest of the clubs.

Osborne, an assistant in recent years to the old coach, Bob Devaney, inherited a super quarterback, Dave Humm, and a mass of other talented performers.

In addition, the Huskers should have a much improved running game with I-back Tony Davis. In 1972, Nebraska's running attack left a lot to be desired but the Cornhuskers salvaged the league crown after Oklahoma was found guilty to recruiting violations and forfeited four conference games.

Too, you can't overlook tradition at Nebraska. The Huskers are in the habit of winning, and Osborne wants to pick up right where Devaney left off.

It's tempting to select Oklahoma State for the title, and if quarterback Brent Blackman, who weighs only 162 pounds and is only 5-foot-11, manages to stay healthy all year, the Cowboys might win it all.

Blackman, with his size something of a handicap, will find it tough to go through 11 games and stand up under all of the punishment.

Put the Cowboys down for the runner-up spot.

Here's the way it appears otherwise:

3. Colorado—The Buffs are loaded. They have two veteran quarterbacks of about equal talent and a great runner in Charlie Davis. Colorado usually pulls some upsets but the Buffs are notorious for going through stages of inconsistency.

4. Missouri—The Tigers have an experienced offensive team built around quarterback John Cherry and running star Tommy Reamon. You gamble picking Missouri for such a high spot. It remains to be seen the Tigers were as good as their 6-6 record last year or whether they lived on the momentum of beating Notre Dame.

5. Oklahoma—The Sooners lost their entire backfield and have a lot of other big holes to fill. Too, there's the two-year probation slapped on Oklahoma, and the Sooners have to depend on a quarterback with not a varsity play of experience.

6. Iowa State—With George Amundson gone, the Cyclones also must look to a green quarterback, Wayne Stanley. However, Iowa State does have the best set of receivers in the league, a terrific runner in Mike Strachan and some star defensive players.

7. Kansas—Despite Dave Jaynes' passing, the outlook for the Jayhawks appears gloomy.

Parents bring sons before Juvenile Officer

NEW MADRID — Parents of four Matthews boys, ranging in age from 12 to 15, this morning brought their sons to New Madrid County Juvenile Officer J. J. Bloomfield Jr. for investigation of a break- in Saturday night at Reed's Grocery in Matthews.

A back door was pried open and an undetermined amount of pennies and silver dollars were reported stolen.

Mishap injures St. Louis man

PERRYVILLE — Byron Stewart, 23, of St. Louis received minor injuries Tuesday when the car he was driving ran off Interstate 55 at 10:50 a.m. 10 miles south of Perryville. The car overturned several times and came to rest in a pond.

Stewart was treated at Perry County Hospital.

Purse stolen

The theft of a purse from a car parked on North Ranney Street was reported to police Tuesday.

Gay Leija of Morehouse Box 276 reported her purse was taken about noon Sunday while the car was parked at 543 N. Ranney.

The purse contained personal papers, credit cards and $6 in cash.

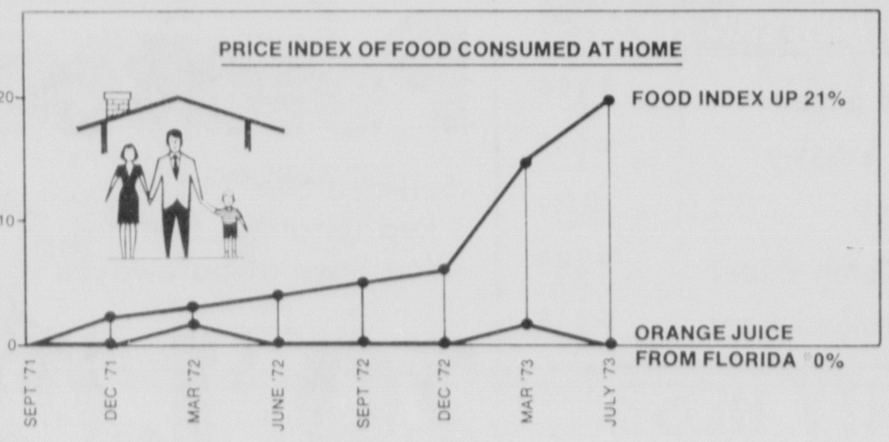
Activities continue tonight with a kiddie parade down Main Street at 8 o'clock. Cash awards will be given in five categories. Warren Fields is parade chairman.

ANITA BRYANT SAYS:

"Thank Goodness- pure orange juice from Florida hasn't gone up in price."

The average price of all brands and forms of 100% Orange Juice from Florida is the same as in September, 1971...the beginning of Phase I...while the average for other food prices has increased 21%.



Source: U.S. Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics, Washington, D.C.
*Frozen Concentrate and Ready-to-Serve Bottles and Cartons

Why have we been able to hold our price? Favorable crop conditions and improved methods of growing, processing and shipping.

Here are some other reasons Orange Juice from Florida is one of America's best food values.

- It's 100% juice. No chemical or synthetic additives.
- It has a lot more nutrition than just Vitamin C. It's a natural blend of B Vitamins and minerals.
- It's a natural "pick-me-up" because its natural sugars make it a natural energizer.

Scott truck operations hit high

Truck and bus operations in Scott County last year reached an all time high, with 2,483 men and women employed full time. Wages and salaries paid to these workers totalled $19,886,347 with another $6,894,006 going to the county's merchants for motor fuel, new vehicles, tires, parts and accessories.

These are some of the facts contained in a new 32- page reference booklet entitled "Facts About Missouri's Bus and Truck Industry," compiled by the research committee of the Missouri Bus and Truck Association.

The booklet reveals that $1.7 billion worth of Missouri farm products were moved by trucks during the year. The state's 130,000 farm trucks transported 106 million pounds of fresh fruits and vegetables to 29 major markets throughout the nation.

In Missouri, three out of five communities no longer have rail service and must depend on trucks and buses exclusively for public transportation. In Scott County, 37 per cent of the communities are without rail service.

The booklet reveals that since 1935 truck registrations have been increasing twice as fast as the growth in passenger cars.

In addition to facts about the commercial vehicle industry in each of the state's 114 counties and City of St. Louis, the booklet contains figures on the growth of passenger car and truck registrations. Since 1935, truck registrations have been growing at a rate nearly twice as fast as the growth in automobile registrations.

Of the funds available to the State Highway Commission for the construction, maintenance and administration of the highway system, 40 per cent comes from the truck and bus industry through payments in state and federal trust fund taxes.

The facts book reveals that both Missouri's interstate system and its primary highway system are being improved faster than the national average. In Missouri, 19.4 per cent of the primary system now has divided lanes, whereas the average for the U. S. is 12.3 per cent.

The booklet designed to provide reference material for libraries, teachers, public officials and the news media also contains information on the structure of the trucking industry, the number of motor carriers under regulation by the Public Service Commission, the average weights of trucks in various classifications and other pertinent information.

Copies of the booklet are available upon request to the Missouri Bus and Truck Association 201 E. Capitol Ave., Jefferson City, Mo. 65101.

Senator says economy top issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., says his talks with constituents during the congressional recess indicate the economy is the prime issue.

Rep. Leonor K. Sullivan, D-Mo., expressed agreement in a separate interview.

Eagleton said, "The Watergate credibility crisis has spilled over into a credibility crisis on the economy, and vice versa.

"I find negligible support for the President's economic policies," he said.

The Watergate issue, he asserted was "very definitely the number two issue, a huge, distant second...far outstripped by the economy" in his meetings with voters at home.

Mrs. Sullivan said: "There's a real crisis in the government's believability and in public confidence in the administration's competence to govern. I can't imagine any other president of the last 40 years letting things get into the condition we have today without using his powers to deal more effectively with our economic problems."

She added: "The disclosures about Watergate and its coverup have shocked most Americans into questioning whether anyone in government tells the truth on anything. But what has happened on inflation scares them into thinking that government is incompetent to deal with economic problems."

Eagleton was critical of the designers of Phase 4—which "I pray to God... does work"--and for "bad-mouthing it publicly." He specifically named Chairman Herbert Stein of the Council of Economic Advisers.

The senator said Stein has taken a position against controls and said he does not believe in them.

"How, then, can I believe in them. How is the housewife supposed to believe in Phase 4?"

Five arrests

Police today announced five arrests, including Winfred Ray Abernathy, 126 Rueben, Robert Bean, 220 Dixie, and Carolyn Randall, 213 Dixie, for assault and battery and Hugh Taylor, 1606 Oklahoma, and Riley J. Brown, Route Three for careless and imprudent driving.

13 injuries treated

Thirteen accident patients were treated Tuesday in the emergency room at Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Linda Adams, 21, East Prairie, fell at work; Andra Baugh, 17, Wyatt, injured right ankle in fall; Ervin Taylor, 53, Sikeston, cut right ankle with knife; Lelia Hileman, 63, Morehouse, spilled hot broth on left forearm at work, receiving first degree burns to arm.

Travis Cummins, 10, Sikeston, bruised and cut lip playing at school; Brent Keefer, 12, Sikeston, injured foot playing football at school; Warren McQueen, 26, Flint, Mich., cut right hand on fan of car; Lynn Emmons, 20, Columbia, cut chin and nose in car accident.

Terry Snyder, 19, Steven Jacobs, 21, and Hal Bozof, 21, of Memphis, Tenn., injured in car accident; Sydney Gentles, 31, East Prairie, bruised left ankle in fall; and Roosevelt Young, 14, New Madrid, cut right forearm in fall on bottle.

Tupperware dealers honored

Tupperware distributors Pat and Bill Marble of Semonea Sales in Sikeston have been presented several awards for outstanding sales and recruiting achievements. The awards were presented to the Marbles last week during Tupperware Home Parties' 1973 "Magical Jubilee" at Appalachian State University in Boone, N. C.

For attaining their recruiting goal, the Marbles received a specially designed walnut plaque with a gold castle in bas- relief bearing the inscription "For Showing the Way by Sharing." They were further honored with one of Tupperware's top sales awards, a replica of a herald's trumpet inscribed "A Salute to Sales" in recognition of their sales achievement.

Some 2,000 dealers, managers and distributors of the plastic housewares firm attended the three- day sales conference.

Florists give demonstrations at Tenn. meeting

JACKSON, Tenn.— Mr. and Mrs. Jack Jackson of Jackson's Florist & Gifts in Dexter, Mo., and Mrs. Ella Louise Carroll of Carroll's Florist in Sikeston, Mo., were guests at the Aug. 25- 26 West Tennessee State Florist Association meeting in the new Jackson Civic Center.

Mrs. Carroll and Jackson gave demonstrations of various flower arrangements for the Christmas season for the 400 persons attending the meeting.

Stockholders approve change in Wetterau name

HAZELWOOD — The stockholders of Wetterau Foods, Inc., approved a change in the corporate name to Wetterau Inc., at the company's annual meeting Aug. 14.

Oliver G. Wetterau, chairman of the board, and Ted C. Wetterau, president, said the name change is in accord with the company's continued diversification and is more descriptive of present corporate activities.

Following the stockholders meeting, the board of directors approved the acquisition of Tri- Continental Leasing Co., of Richmond Heights through a pooling of interests. Tri-Continental is a diversified finance firm.

"We feel Tri- Continental is a fine addition to our corporate family in providing a needed service to our retailers. It further enhances our decision to diversify into areas with high profit yields," stated Ted C. Wetterau.

Wetterau Inc. is projecting sales in excess of $500 million for the fiscal year ending March 30, 1974.

Focus On Business

Construction begins on new hotel

Construction has started on 48- room Econo- Travel Motor Hotel on land adjacent to the Dutch Pantry Restaurant at the Highway 62 and Interstate 55 interchange, and when completed in late fall, it will offer Sikeston area residents and guests quality motel accommodations at the lowest year- around rates and air- conditioned rooms, each fully carpeted and containing two double beds with deluxe mattresses, a dresser, desk, full bath and dressing area, television and telephone.

The motel is being built by a Jackson, Tenn., firm (Motels For Missions Corp.) Harry Naylor, MFM president, stated that the Econo- Travel Motor Hotel will feature large, comfortable electrically heated and air- conditioned rooms, in any of the leading motels in the United States at considerably less cost to the traveler," Reggie Smith, secretary- treasurer of MFM Corp., said.

"Our motel will have rooms as pleasant and comfortable as

A spokesman for Econo-Travel Motor Hotel Corp. stated that the license for the Sikeston motel is one of 510 licenses currently issued throughout 34 states.

MFM Corp. has dedicated itself in support of Oriental Missionary Society International and will donate 10 per cent of the proceeds from the motel on a continuing basis to the Christian missionary organization.

Permanent financing has been provided by Security Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Davis to build new dealership

MEMPHIS— Kindle B. "Bud" Davis, owner of Bud Davis Chevrolet, and former agency owner in Dexter and Sikeston, Mo., has completed purchase of a 14- acre tract in East Memphis where he plans to build a Cadilac automobile dealership.

The site, at White Station and Sanderlin, was formerly owned by Temple Israel and currently is vacant. The $1 million sale was handled by Mrs. Mabel B. Paul of Cross Country Realty Co. and Mrs. Barbara Bonner of J. W. Walker Realty.

Construction of the dealership is subject to rezoning the property to allow for an auto agency. Davis said as soon as rezoning is completed he will start work on the project.

It will be contemporary in design but will "have a few ideas that won't make it look like an automobile dealership," he said.

Davis said he and General Motors are in the process of selecting an architect and indicated he thought the project would probably be put out for bids when plans are completed.

The auto dealer will continue to own and operate his Chevrolet agency at 367 Union Avenue, an operation he purchased in 1970. The new Cadillac sales and service facility will be the city's second and serve Memphis' burgeoning east side.

Another city auto dealer, Bill Speros Chrysler Plymouth, Inc., plans to build a dealership near Davis' proposed site. Speros intends to open an agency at Mt. Moriah and I-240 next year.

Meat production up over last year's output

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Red meat production in Missouri during July was 63.1 million pounds, 3 per cent above the output in July 1972, estimates the Missouri Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

It said the increase resulted from larger cattle and hog slaughter.

Beef production, at 43.6 million pounds during July, was up 1 per cent from a year earlier and pork production was 19.3 million pounds, a 10 per cent increase.

Veal productioing July was 116,000 pounds, down 25 per cent from July 1972. Lamb and mutton production, at 69,000 pounds, was 13 per cent below last year.

Local dentist attends meeting

Dr. William B. Dillon, a Sikeston dentist, recently returned from a meeting of the International Association for Orthodontics in Seattle, Wash.

The 70- hour orthodontics course consisted of lectures and laboratory procedures. Dr. Dillon was among 25 dentists from all over the country attending the seminar.

COOKING-UP with judy

The Daily Standard, Sikeston, Mo.
Wednesday, September 5, 1973

Readers,

This week's column is a feature by Dianne Larkin, consumer food specialist for the Missouri Department of Agriculture, which pertains to turkey. Also included is a hearty salad of tuna and shell macaroni by Cecily Brownstone, Associated Press food editor.

Hope you enjoy both.
Judy S.

Today's consumer is faced with making decisions concerning more than 10,000 supermarket items. The consumer must determine what foods are best for family nutrition and which size package is most economical for particular needs, what quality grade will be most satisfactory and whether to buy fresh, frozen, canned or dried products. The homemaker must be concerned with providing meals that are pleasing to the family and still stay within a budget.

Approximately one- fourth of the food dollar is spent for meat. Consumers constantly search for ways to provide variety in menus while making the most of the meat dollars. Although the price of turkey meat has increased this year due to the high feed costs, it is still one of the best food buys on the market and is less expensive today than in 1948.

Today turkeys are produced on highly efficient farms in flocks of 5,000 to 10,000 birds; many farms produce as many as 40,000 to 50,000 birds per year. Missouri produces about 13 per cent of the nation's total turkeys. Mass production coupled with the use of modern technical developments enables producers to furnish turkey meat to consumers at reasonable prices.

Modern breeding methods and production improvements have enabled today's consumer to purchase more desirable turkey products. Today's turkeys are tender and require considerable less cooking time, that those of a few years ago. Turkeys are broad breasted with thicker drumsticks and thighs, which assures more servings per pound.

Every turkey is inspected at the processing plant for wholesomeness. Any diseased or contaminated birds are not used. The inspection mark is a circle which states "Inspected for Wholesomeness by The United States Department of Agriculture." It also assures the consumer that the processing plant in which the turkey was processed met stringent cleanliness requirements, that the product is not adulterated and that it is truthfully labeled.

Less than half of the turkeys produced today are sold as whole birds. Most are being further processed into turkey rolls, parts, frozen dinners, luncheon meats, etc. Although turkey parts may cost more per pound than whole turkey, they can be more economical for smaller families since there is no loss from leftovers. And the family has its choice of light or dark meat.

Turkey meat is also high in protein and low in calories. It is very easily digested. But best of all, it has a delicious flavor which makes it a perfect meat to serve alone or in combination with other foods.

For menu variety, try this easy, economical recipe using turkey drumsticks. Ask the butcher at your favorite market to stock turkey parts if they are not available now

PAN FRIED TURKEY DRUMSTICKS

4 drumsticks
1 cup flour
1 teaspoon paprika
1/2 teaspoon oregano
2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
Cooking oil

Coat turkey pieces in mixture of flour and seasonings. Brown in hot cooking oil, turning as necessary to brown evenly. Reduce heat and cover tightly. Cook slowly for 45 to 60 minutes, or until thickest pieces are fork tender. Uncover pan last 10 minutes of cooking to re- crisp skin. Serves six.

Coffee Corner by Cherie

If anyone ever says labor day weekend again to me I think I'll scream!! At least, it's aptly named, because that's just exactly what I did — labor!!! It all started off with me fixing the food for eight people for dinner, and after making an angel pie, a chocolate icebox pie, and salad dressing, I thought that next I would start on my potato dish which consists of potatoes you bake, then mash like twice baked, but to that mixture you add other ingredients including two cans of crab meat, then you pop them back in their shells and rebake them. Trouble, but worth it, except this time after I mixed everything, I tasted my finger just as I was about to stuff the shells and blagky!! Have you ever bitten into a cucumber which is real bitter? Well, that's exactly what these potatoes tasted like, I couldn't believe it! I just knew it must be the potatoes, but it turned out it was the stick of butter I used, and unfortunately I had also used some of that same stick in the chocolate pie and that also went down the garbage disposal. Then, just as I am throwing out all this food, (guess I couldn't see good for the tears in my eyes), in went one of those thin little measuring spoons, and guess what — no potatoes - no chocolate pie — and no disposal! In case you're wondering, I made pie and potatoes over and got everyone fed. Then, the next day we went to Perryville, where we spent a lovely day relaxing at some friends cabins on a lake, and I'm awfully glad we did, cause when we got home that evening we found out someone had broken into our golf shed and swiped our cart, clubs, etc. All has been found, but not quite in the condition it was in when we bought it last month. Surely, I thought nothing more can happen — somebody up there must have heard me, for the next day my washing machine (which is also new — I give up), which is located on the second floor of my house overflowed. I had just sent the painters home Friday, after having had them here for two weeks, so that too could have been timed better! Oh well, labor day weekend comes but once a year but I sure hope I can manage to be ready for it by the time it rolls around again!!

BAKED CRISPY CHICKEN

A new version of a popular recipe.

1 cup corn flake crumbs
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ cup bottled real Italian dressing
2½ to 3-pound broiler-fryer, cut up

Mix corn flake crumbs with salt and pepper. Brush Italian dressing on all sides of chicken pieces, then coat well with seasoned crumbs. In shallow baking pan, place chicken on large piece of foil; wrap loosely in foil, sealing edges airtight with double fold. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven for 45 minutes; open foil and continue baking until chicken is golden — 30 minutes. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Hearty Salad Fits a Budget

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

For a lunch or supper main dish that uses foods that are widely available and comparatively inexpensive we suggest this hearty Seaside Salad. With the salad serve potato chips and pickle slices (for something crunchy) and iced tea.

SEASIDE SALAD

1 package (8 ounces) small macaroni shells
2 cans (each 7 ounces) tuna, drained and flaked
2 hard-cooked eggs, diced
1-3rd cup finely chopped onion
1 cup thinly sliced (diagonally) celery
1 green pepper, seeded and cut in thin short strips
1 cup pitted ripe olives, sliced
1 cup mayonnaise
½ cup commercial sour cream
1 teaspoon curry powder
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon white pepper

Cook macaroni according to package directions adding a little salad oil to keep separate and chill. Toss with tuna, egg, onion, celery, green pepper and olives. With a whisk or a fork beat together the remaining ingredients; toss with macaroni-tuna mixture. Cover and chill until serving time. Garnish with salad greens. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

IN STEP WITH THE TIMES—Shell macaroni and tuna, good budget-stretchers, are the mainstay of this main-dish salad.

400 recipes are given in the illustrated "Cecily Brownstone's Associated Press Cookbook" available by sending $4.95 (check or money order made payable to "The Associated Press") to this newspaper in care of AP COOKBOOK, Box G4, Teaneck, N.J. 07666.

Drafting legislation is continuing process

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Drafting of legislation is "a continuing process—sort of like keeping the kids clean," says the Missouri Senate President pro tem, William J. Cason.

Although the legislature is out of session, it technically is in session because the 77th general assembly—an assembly sits for two years—is still in progress, Cason points out.

Consequently, about 30 committees—standing committees and special committees—have either been meeting or will hold meetings before the second half of the assembly convenes in January.

Next year's legislative session will be one month shorter, at 4½ months, than this year's session.

"Any piece of legislation in this short session that is not drafted and in the hands of the legislature by the opening day is probably dead," Cason said. "You've got to work now."

Two issues that took up much time last session—government reorganization and an attempt to reinstate the death penalty—will be back again.

The governor vetoed the reorganization bill and the death penalty measure died in the closing hours of the session. A bill to give full majority rights to 18-year-olds died along with the death penalty, and that also is expected to be reintroduced.

A Senate committee will begin Sept. 25 reworking the reorganization bill to satisfy some of the governor's criticisms.

Cason's No. 1 project is a new bill on campaign expenditures, which he calls "one of the hardest I've worked on." Committee hearings on a proposed campaign law are likely before December, Cason said.

Under current law, many contributions and expenses do not come to light because they don't have to be reported to the secretary of state.

One of the most active summertime committees has been a house group hearing testimony on the fuel shortage. Another hearing was scheduled today in Jefferson City.

Among suggestions made to the committee are reduction of highway speed limits and a higher licensing fee for vehicles with high horsepower.

The committee also is concerned with ensuring an adequate supply of heating oil this winter for state institutions. The Fulton State Hospital ran dangerously low last winter.

The committee will join forces with the governor's council on on energy.

Investigations by a House Appropriations subcommittee has resulted in audits, begun today, of enrollment figures at Missouri's colleges and universities.

The subcommittee hopes to establish a uniform accounting system to be followed in making appropriations to higher education.

Appropriations are made on the basis of total credit hurs offered. However, the legislature and the commission on higher education has had a policy against counting continuing education students, those who take nighttime classes, usually at an off-campus location.

It was discovered that some schools count such students for budget purposes, and the House Appropriations Committee voted to ask the universities to return appropriations if it is determined the money was obtained by counting continuing education students.

A senate-house committee has ben holding hearings with a view toward revamping Missouri's court system, a project that could prove as time-consuming and as difficult as reorganizing state government.

Still another committee has been looking into personnel turnover in state government and recently took testimony from nine former state employes, including the former assistant director of agriculture, who said they through they were dismissed by the new Republican administration because of political reasons.

The witnesses denied statements by Gov. Christopher S. Bond that they had to obtain endorsements from Democratic party leaders to get their jobs and that they had to make party contributions to keep their jobs.

A governor's aide has charged that the hearing constituted a political attack and said the subcommittee chairman, Rep. Alex Fazzino, D-Kansas City, obtained numerous patronage jobs for Democrats.

A new budgeting system to gain more detail on expenditures is the purpose of a house committee. The governor vetoed a so-called zero-base budgeting bill and is putting his own plan into effect.

A senate committee is checking with North Carolina, Michigan and other states to gain advice on how to implement a bill setting up a Missouri marketing office in a foreign country. A governor's task force is doing the same thing.

Other committees, some of them subcommittees and others made up of house and senate members, are working on election law reform, modernization of the legislature, allocation of office space for state agencies, and procedures for improving sales tax collections in the revenue department.

The committees will work closely with the permanent committee on legislative research in drafting bills for prefiling on Dec. 3.

In addition, the permanent committee on fiscal affairs meets every month throughout the year to handle emergency fund requests or requests to divert appropriations to other purposes within departments.

Legislators receive $8,400 a year and get no extra compensation for serving on committees other than their expenses of 10 cents a mile and $10 a day for food and lodging. On Sept. 28, the food and lodging allotment goes to $25 a day.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Her Husband Has A Drinking Problem

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—My husband is a heavy vodka drinker and he also has what they call thickening of the blood. I was told drinking vodka will not hurt him as much as other hard drinks. Is this true? I have seen him go clear out of his head. He is 48 years old. He drinks two fifths from Friday noon to Saturday night and then some weeks a half pint a day. Maybe that is not a heavy drinker but to me it seems like a lot. Can you tell me what the two will do, the thick blood and the vodka mix or is he safe in drinking it?

Dear Reader—Vodka and most whiskies have about the same amount of alcohol in them. In other words, if it's 80 proof vodka or 80 proof whisky they contain the same amount of alcohol. There are small traces of additional products in whiskies that give them a different flavor from vodka. Some of these can be irritating to some individuals but the main problem your husband has is drinking too much alcohol in any drink. He is a heavy drinker and has a problem.

It is not a question of whether he should drink vodka or whisky. The point is he should do something to slow down or totally eliminate his drinking habit. Persistent drinking of this amount of alcohol contributes to many medical problems, including liver damage, a higher incidence of ulcers, progressive brain damage—at least there is a decrease in learning ability. In short, it's hard to think of anything good that drinking this amount of alcohol accomplishes.

I assume by thick blood you mean too many red blood cells. I'd need more information to say much about this but it can contribute to heart attacks and high blood pressure. Sometimes it's a normal response to moderate altitude or it can be a response to lung disease. Certainly it's not going to be helped by alcohol. You should discuss his alcohol problem with his doctor and let his doctor approach him about it. I don't believe that either mate can do much about the other's alcohol problems alone. It's usually not a home treatment project, and the sooner professional help is brought in with an alcohol problem, usually the better the results.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I can't resist sending you the clipping sent to me by my sister who lives in Florida—I have the feeling all folk medicine is not foolishness. I am going to get a magnet as soon as I can and try it on my foot cramps. If you care to publish this "discovery" perhaps many persons will try it and report their experiences to you. What harm would be done?

Dear Reader—Thanks for the clipping about the woman doctor who cured her leg cramps by going to bed with an iron magnet. I'm not sure that everyone would want to go to bed with a three inch long horseshoe magnet placed between the bed mattress and the sheet. According to the clipping you sent me, everytime the doctor-patient rolled the affected leg muscle over the magnet the cramp disappeared.

I can't see any real good reason why this system should work. I am more impressed with the number of people who have reported good results from wearing warm socks to bed to prevent leg cramps, or have used a warm blanket or other procedures which result in keeping the feet and legs warm at night. However, I'm just curious enough about most things to include your letter in the column and I would agree that it's not likely to cause anyone any harm and it might be interesting to see what results people get from it.

Scientists discover new mosquito control

DAVIS, Calif. (AP) — Scientists say they have found a way to control pesticide-resistant mosquitoes without drenching the countryside with harmful chemicals.

Synthetic growth hormones capable of controlling mosquitoes are being tested with great success, a group of University of California entomologists said in a report released Friday.

The hormones, when sprayed on wet areas where mosquitoes breed, disrupt the normal growth pattern of mosquito larvae. Some grow so fast they split their shells and die; others grow so slowly they die before maturity.

Health officials have been concerned because mosquitoes, which carry such diseases as encephalitis and malaria, sometimes develop resistance to traditional pesticides.

The growth hormones, on the other hand, are environmentally safe and dissipate quickly into harmless substances after being used, the researchers said.

"This is much more environmentally and ecologically sound, but of course it is also much more expensive, more difficult and more slow," said Raymond Coppock of the university's agricultural extension program here.

Dr. Emil Dupras of the UC Mosquito Control Research Laboratory in Fresno said farmers now pay about 10 cents an acre for pesticide spraying but the hormone treatment could cost between $1.50 and $4.50 an acre.
